

HARDING CONTINUES TO REGAIN HEALTH

565,036 IS AMOUNT OF BUILDING IN JULY

Amount of Month's Permits Brings Year's Totals Up to $5,733,971

GLENDAL's building record is now over two and a quarter million dollars ahead of the figures for last year. The first seven months of this year claim a total of $5,733,971 worth of building permits. This sum is $2,280,711 in excess of the total of $3,453,260 for the same period during 1922. It is only $572,000 less than the figure total of $6,305,971 for last year. H. C. Vandewater, superintendent of the building department, is confident that 1923 will be a ten million dollar year.

July's books were closed yesterday afternoon with $565,036 in credit—making it the most active July in the history of Glendale. Compared with the same month in previous years, it indicates the continuing expansion of the community.

The total for last month exceeds the record for July, 1922, $374,850 by $190,186, the total for July, 1921, of $262,525 $302,525; and the total of $2,280,711 for July, 1920, by $2,280,711.

Apartment and Stores
Permits issued last month included two apartment houses, one for $10,000 and the other $12,250, and one $10,000 five-room residence.

Five-room bungalows seem to be the most popular as twice as many permits for this sized dwelling were issued as for any other size. The thirty-six permits for five-room residences represent an investment of $122,800. The next most popular sized bungalow seems to be the four-room residence. Eighteen permits for this sized house were issued. They are scheduled to cost $43,000.

Next to the five-room bungalows, however, the six-room houses represent the largest investment. Owing to the cost of an extra room, the thirteen permits totaled $62,300. Only two permits were issued for two-room bungalows, making a total of $600.

Garages were represented by separate permits involving an expenditure of $7235. In addition, 59 other permits included provision for the construction of garages.

Build Additions
Evidence that Glendale families sometimes need more room is evidenced by the fact that 29 permits, representing $15,000, were issued to cover additions and 16 permits, involving $5,850, were granted for repairs.

Duplexes were represented last month by only five permits. However, these will involve an investment of $26,950.

Other classifications were represented as follows: Three-room bungalows, eight permits, $13,500; seven-room houses, five permits, $35,500; eight-room permits, four permits, $13,500. Meanwhile, this month is winding at the total of $393,484 for last August.

Twelve Injured When Motor Bus And Auto Crash

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—A dozen persons were injured when a loaded automobile stage crashed into another automobile and then dived into an embankment at Gage and Record streets early today. Most of the injured persons were taken to various hospitals or their homes.

According to witnesses the accident happened when the stage tried to pass another machine when an automobile from the opposite side also tried to pass. The bus and the oncoming machine crashed, the bus wheels locking. The heavy car then careened to the side of the road into a ditch, throwing most of its passengers to the pavement.

PRICES DROP IN GASOLINE WAR

Two Cents Per Gallon Cut Is Announced by Leaders In Oil Industry

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—The price of gasoline was slashed two cents a gallon here today by the large distributing companies. The new price is seventeen cents a gallon. On scrip books the price is sixteen cents a gallon.

L. A. Reductions

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—Two of the "big six" oil companies announced here today that, effective at once, a two-cent slash had been made in the price of gasoline, and the other four companies were expected to make like cuts. The new price of gasoline as set forth by the Standard Oil and Union Oil Company made the fuel seventeen cents a gallon and fifteen cents per gallon to book holders.

The Standard Oil led with the announcement of the price slashing and were followed by a similar announcement by the Union Oil. The other four big companies, Shell, Associated, Ventura and Richfield, were understood to have made like reductions.

The reductions today by the big companies was expected to be followed by independent companies making even greater reductions, even to as low as ten cents a gallon. For several weeks independent companies have sold gasoline ranging from seven to seventeen cents per gallon.

Cut In Portland
PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 1.—A cut of two cents a gallon in the price of gasoline, effective immediately, was announced here today by all of the large distributors, making the retail price twenty-one cents a gallon.

North Chinese Take Amoy, Reports Say

MANILA, Aug. 1.—"Northern Chinese cruiser captured Amoy yesterday, landing troops," said a private cable received here today from Amoy. "All work suspended and no boats crossing the harbor. Situation very bad," it added. Another private message said: "Owing to fighting of the Chinese contending forces, communication with Kulung has been cut off. The customs house has stopped work and business offices are closed."

Kulung is a small island near Amoy, where foreigners, rich Chinese and the consular offices are located.

The estrangement and final separation from her husband, Webster Campbell, film director, occurred about a year ago, it was said.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE CAN NOT AGREE

Premier Baldwin Plans to Make Separate Pact With Germany

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service
LONDON, Aug. 1.—Following a meeting of the cabinet it was learned from semi-official sources this afternoon that Great Britain has practically decided to make a separate reparations agreement with Germany.

A strong faction of the cabinet maintained that the French note failed to advance the reparations issue towards a solution and that it was advisable for the British to send a separate note to Berlin, replying to the German note of June 7.

Continued Conference
Premier Baldwin is hopeful that a separate Anglo-German reparations agreement will not break down the Anglo-French Entente.

Although the premier believes that further negotiations with France are useless, cabinet members will confer almost continuously for the next twenty-four hours, preparing a statement which may induce France to renew diplomatic conversations in a more conciliatory mood.

BOY, STRUCK BY ICE TRUCK, DIES

Inquest to Reveal Cause of Death of Four-Year-Old Child in Hospital

Douglas Matice, 4-year-old son, and only child of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Matice of 2223 Fargo street, Los Angeles, died at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Tuesday, July 31, 1923, at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, following an accident taking place at 2 o'clock in the street in front of the Matice home, when he was apparently injured by a motor ice truck.

Just how the boy was injured was not ascertainable this morning. Reports, however, state that an ice truck belonging to the Colson Ice Company of Los Angeles was stopped in front of the Matice home while the ice man was making a delivery. The street is on a down grade and it is thought that the ice man returned to the truck, got in and started without knowing that Douglas had climbed down from the sidewalk into the street back of the truck for some ice.

Reports further state that in starting on the down grade the truck rolled back a short distance and struck the child.

Brought to Hospital
He was picked up unconscious and rushed to the office of a Glendale doctor, where he was revived and sat up and talked to his mother and the doctor. It was not thought that he was seriously injured, but to be sure it was decided to take him to the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital for a thorough examination.

Shortly after reaching the hospital the little fellow went into convulsions and his death followed.

While no statement has been made by witnesses it is thought the ice truck did not pass over the child for there are no scratches or bruises on his body to indicate that he received bodily injury.

An inquest will be held Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Jewel City Undertaking Company's chapel on North Brand boulevard. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Nurses Walk Out in 'Garter Peeping' Row

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Aug. 1.—Thirty-seven student nurses at the Sacramento County hospital walked out today as a protest against the retention of Dr. H. E. Morrison, superintendent, whom they have charged with "garter peeping" and other improper advances. As the girl nurses quit their posts, trained nurses recruited in San Francisco, took their places.

JAPAN SYMPATHETIC

TOKYO, Aug. 1.—Great interest in President Harding's illness exists in Japan. It was learned today the foreign office has made frequent calls upon the American embassy for information regarding the president's progress and details of his illness, unofficially expressing the deepest regard and regret.

Harding's First Nurse Is Near During Illness

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—A peculiar coincidence is that President Harding has two nurses near him while he is ill. One is Miss Ruth Powderly, known as the presidential nurse, because she was selected to nurse President Wilson, and later to care for Mrs. Harding during her critical illness a year ago.

Just across the bay in Oakland is one of the president's first nurses. She is Sarah E. Stevens, 83, who, bus and the oncoming machine crashed, the bus wheels locking. The heavy car then careened to the side of the road into a ditch, throwing most of its passengers to the pavement.

ASK STABILIZED PRICE ON WHEAT

Northwestern Farmers Call Mass Meeting to Demand Immediate Relief

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 1.—A call was issued here today for a mass meeting of wheat growers to be held next Monday for the purpose of demanding of President Harding legislation which will "stabilize the price of wheat and thus rescue the farmer from his deplorable condition."

The governors of Washington, Oregon, Montana and Idaho and Senators Dill of Washington, McNary of Oregon, Borah of Idaho, and Wheeler of Montana have been invited to participate in the mass meeting, which is to be held under the farmers' union of Washington and North Idaho.

President Adams of the Union, in his address, declared that agriculture in the Pacific Northwest is "all but paralyzed" by artificially lowering grain prices and that the growers of this section are due to "lose millions of dollars."

Police Expose Looms As Heath Trial Opens

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—With Chief of Police L. D. Oaks and R. L. Both Oaks and Heath are said to be determined to give the commission all the facts they have, and it was predicted by friends of both that the "biggest police expose in Los Angeles in years" was immediately in prospect.

STREET CAR STRIKE IS SERIOUS

New Jersey Cities Facing Great Tieup; Millions Walk to Work

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Two million workers in New Jersey municipalities walked to work this morning.

The strike of 6,300 motor men and conductors and shopmen, employed by the Public Service Railway Company went into effect at midnight. The strikers demanded a 30 per cent wage increase.

Not a wheel turned on the trolley company's entire system, Thomas McCarter, president of the corporation told International News Service this morning. The city officials in Jersey City, Newark, Camden, New Brunswick, Patterson, Elizabeth, Hoboken, Dunellen, East Orange, and scores of smaller communities took command of the situation in their localities. They put autos, motor trucks, busses and even wagons into service in an effort to relieve the situation.

Predict Long Tieup
The strike affected employees, approximately 1,500,000 workers, about 5,000 manufacturing plants, including the central establishments in many of the nation's greatest industries. Another 500,000 use the railway daily commuting to New York.

That the tie up will continue over a long period was the prediction at both the offices of the street car company and the union. As each car was run into the barn at midnight, company men began the removal of brake apparatus and controller boxes from the cars, indicating the trolley corporation would make no effort to resume service with strike breaking crews.

A mass meeting of all strikers was called for today.

SEIZE STEAMER'S LIQUOR SUPPLIES

French Freighter Is Taken Over by Customs Men In L. A. Harbor

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 1.—Boarding the French steamship Alaska at Los Angeles harbor today, Deputy United States customs collectors seized 3,300 gallons of French wines in casks and 101 quarts of high grade brandy in bottles, later taking possession of the ship. It was the first Pacific Coast arrest under the recent federal ruling on the Volstead Act prohibiting ships of any nation from bringing liquor other than medical supplies within the three mile limit. It was also the first time that liquor has been seized on a freight steamer arriving at an American port, as previous sensational seizures on the Atlantic coast have been made on palatial passenger liners.

Burbank Sends Fruit, Flowers To President

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Aug. 1.—Among the abundance of gifts flowing in on President and Mrs. Harding at their temporary residence in the Palace Hotel today were two big baskets from Luther Burbank, Santa Rosa "plant wizard." HARDING'S VESSEL HITS BARKENTINE

Captain of U. S. S. Henderson Reports to Board on Crash in Fog

SEATTLE, Aug. 1.—A naval board of inquiry today is investigating the collision in the strait of Juan De Fuca last Saturday between the "gray mystery ship" and the five-masted barkentine Monterey. "The gray mystery ship," which disappeared in the fog after the crash, has been revealed as none other than President Harding's transport, the U. S. S. Henderson.

Captain Allen Buchanan of the Henderson, now in San Francisco, wirelessed the Bremerton navy yard that they had hit an unidentified vessel in the strait Saturday. The foreyard of the barkentine destroyed the Henderson's wireless, and it was impossible to report the accident.

Lung Clearing Up
While the latest medical bulletins from the sick room have not specifically mentioned the pneumonia patches in the right lung, the appearance of which late Sunday night was the most alarming factor of his illness, it is understood that these are clearing up and most of the physicians felt they are dispelled. Oxygen tanks were placed in the president's sick room for emergency use and are still there today, though it is very unlikely, it was said, that there will be any need for them.

Woman Injured When Car and Truck Crash

Mrs. John T. Noble, 827 West Fort street, Los Angeles, was taken to the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital this afternoon suffering from injuries received when the coupe in which she and her husband were riding was wrecked on a collision with a truck driven by E. A. McKee, an employee of the P. K. Dotson Co. of Los Angeles. The accident occurred when Noble, who was driving the coupe, attempted to pass between two trucks, the hub cap of the rear wheel of the coupe striking the hub-cap of the Dotson truck's front wheel.

Conductor Knocks Out Alleged Hold-up Man

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—G. G. Hall, street car conductor, carries a wicked wallop in his left fist. Jose Rodriguez, alleged bandit, will testify to that. Early today Hall was en route to work when three Mexicans approached him with the command to hold up his hands as one of them brandished a revolver. Instead of complying, Hall landed a well directed blow on one of the bandit's chin, rendering him unconscious. The man's companions tried to revive him with a bottle. Hall came back with the police a few minutes later and found the would-be bandit still unconscious. All three were arrested and charged with suspicion of robbery.

The attacker escaped through a rear window.

STEADY IMPROVEMENT IN CONDITION OF PRESIDENT PREDICTED BY PHYSICIANS

Everything Indicates Crisis Is Past, Says Chief of Medical Staff; Guard Against Any Setbacks Now Chief Task

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—The official medical bulletin issued at 10:12 o'clock this morning on President Harding's condition follows:

"9:30 a. m.—The president is fairly comfortable this morning after a few hours' sleep. His breathing is less labored and there is but little cough. The lung condition is about the same as yesterday. He is still much exhausted but maintains his normal buoyancy of spirit. Small amounts of food are being taken regularly and there is regular and satisfactory elimination. The temperature is 99 degrees, pulse 114, respiration 30. While progress is being made, every care is necessary to assure freedom from complications.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—President Harding is well started on the road to recovery today. His physicians are frankly anticipating a slow but steady improvement from day to day. Whatever doubts they may have had about his ability to pull safely through the complication of illnesses have been dispelled. Barring any unforeseen and at this time wholly unexpected setbacks, the recovery of the president is now assured, according to the physicians. Everything indicates he is past the crisis, said Dr. C. E. Sawyer, chief of the attending medical staff.

The gains that have been reported in the history of the case have been more pleasing to the medical men than rapid improvement. The steadiness of the president's recovery, they say, proves that the natural vigor of Mr. Harding and his fundamentally sound constitution have begun to assert themselves in a normal way.

Permit Sister To See Harding In Sick Room
SANTA ANITA, Aug. 1. Mrs. E. E. Remsburg, President Harding's "favorite sister," and her two daughters arrived shortly before noon today. They went immediately to Mrs. Harding's apartment and Mrs. Harding told Mrs. Remsburg of the president's illness. Mrs. Remsburg, who lives at Santa Anita, was expected to see the president later in the day.

sequently, there will be no rushing the president back to the heat in the capital, despite the earnest desire of the doctors and Mrs. Harding to have Mr. Harding "home" as soon as is safely possible.

Patient Cheerful
The president passed a fairly comfortable first part of the night. He obtained several hours of refreshing sleep before midnight. He slept again after midnight, awakening about 2 a. m. and talking with Dr. Sawyer. He was somewhat restless, according to reports coming from the sick room. Later he dozed off again, and at 4 a. m. was reported to be sleeping.

The president is taking a cheerful interest in the scientific aspects of his own case, affording some quiet amusement to the doctors. He sends out regularly for the newspapers, both morning and afternoon, and reads the lengthy accounts of his own illness before turning to other news. Baseball claims him next.

"The president really knows more about the scientific side of his case than is usual for a layman," said Dr. Sawyer.

One of the matters which has been worrying the chief executive since Sunday night is the cancellation of the balance of his tour through California. Elaborate arrangements had been made for the reception of the official party at numerous points south of San Francisco and thousands of persons had either gone to various points along the line or were preparing to do so when word came that the president would be unable to proceed.

All Night Vigil
Late Monday night, when Dr. Sawyer terms the "crisis" in Mr. Harding's illness, he sent for Sawyer and issued instructions that Secretary Christian was to be sent to Hollywood to read the address which had been prepared for delivery there Thursday afternoon before a convention of Knights Templar. Many persons had come from long distances, he said, because of their expectation of hearing a presidential address at Hollywood, and he did not want them disappointed. Christian will have tonight to "bat" for his chief.

Dr. Joel T. Boone, naval physician, and a trained nurse again maintained an all-night vigil outside the president's bedroom. The other doctors slept near by. Mrs. Harding retired before (Continued on page 5)

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Card of 469 West Pioneer drive had as a week-end guest Joseph Sullivan of Galesburg, Ill. They took a long motor trip on Sunday to various points of interest in neighboring cities and at the beach resort. On Monday Mr. and Mrs. Card were guests of Mr. Sullivan in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Pomeroy and family of 1212 East Windsor road spent Sunday at Redondo Beach at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy McCracken. The affair was in the nature of a birthday party and family reunion in honor of the anniversary of Mrs. Pomeroy's and Mrs. McCracken's mother, Mrs. S. Mosier.

Col. and Mrs. J. A. Nuttall and two children, Mary and Jack, arrived by automobile Monday from Palo Alto for a week's visit with their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Burson of 375 West Broadway. The Nuttalls left Glendale two years ago and they are very much amazed at the growth that has taken place during that time.

Glendale friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McDonald, former residents of North Louise street and former owners of a confectionery store on North Brand boulevard, will be interested to know that they have sold their business in Pasadena and after two years absence are returning to make their home at 440 West California avenue.

Robert B. Craddock of Missoula, Mont., who has been visiting at the home of his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Social Events

Delightful Trip
Mr. and Mrs. James Wyvell of 1215 North Brand boulevard and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Kase of 331 North Isabel street returned home Monday after an enjoyable three weeks' automobile trip in the North. They went via the Ridge Route, spending several days at Yosemite National Park and Lake Tahoe. They made the return trip via the coast route, visiting relatives in Marysville, Oakland, San Francisco and Santa Barbara. They state they were fortunate in not having tire or motor trouble and that they found the roads in fine condition.

Couple Honored
Mr. and Mrs. Leland Baker of 1819 South Brand boulevard, whose marriage, April 28, 1923, was celebrated so quietly that their numerous friends had little opportunity to show them the customary courtesies, were the completed guests at a surprise shower, Tuesday night, given by the Epworth League of the Central Avenue Methodist church, of which Mr. Baker is the president, in the social hall of the church.

The hall was elaborately decorated for the occasion, a canopy of greenery and flowers had been erected which completely hid the ceiling. The decorating committee included Miss Norma Wallace, Will Marple and Ruthford Wallace.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker were escorted to the seats of honor by little Joe Marple, son of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Marple, dressed as Cupid, who proceeded to drive his automobile with his express wagon on as a trailer into the hall, loaded with gifts for the bride couple. Three times the auto came loaded. Beautiful gifts of cut glass, silver, linen and many other useful gifts were showered on their president and his bride by the members of the league.

The evening was spent with music and games. An outstanding feature of the evening was the huge wedding cake, the work of the artistic hands of Miss Norma Wallace. The cake was built in three layers and was decorated with a miniature bride and groom.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served to the hundred or more members and guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker have been residing with Mr. Baker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Baker at 1819 South Brand, since their marriage.

Auxiliary Meets
A feature of the Women's Auxiliary of the Glendale Camp, Spanish War Veterans, is scheduled for tonight in the K. P. hall on South Brand boulevard. There will be nine candidates initiated into the auxiliary and Mrs. Mary R. Hill will be installed as president, and Mrs. Butler as senior vice-president. Delegations from the auxiliaries of the Roosevelt and Glass camps of Los Angeles will be present and direct the initiation and installation.

The committee in charge of the evening includes Mrs. Albert C. Merrilow, Mrs. Mary R. Hill and Mrs. Bessie M. Mabry. The auxiliary will meet at 8 o'clock.

George W. Pierce of 205 East Maple street arrived home Monday night from a fishing trip in the Kern river country. He made the trip with a Pasadena man and they report fine fishing. Mr. Pierce spent the past week-end in Los Angeles with friends.

AGNES CONSTANCE GREATER
Funeral services for Agnes Constance Greathex, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Greathex of 1420 Rock Glen avenue, were held yesterday afternoon in the Little Church of the Flowers in Forest Lawn Memorial park.

A friend of the Greathex family has written the following obituary, "Among the first to inhabit Babyland, little Agnes Constance Greathex was laid to rest at 3:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, July 31, 1923.

"A gathering of friends present at the Little Church of the Flowers testified as no words could do to her lovely nature and charming personality for 'to know her was to love her.'"

"Baby Agnes was born to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Greathex in Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, November 14, 1920, was two years, eight months and fifteen days old and was born to cheer and love all who met her."

The beautiful Episcopal service was read by Rev. Philip K. Kemp, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church.

The Greathex family came to Glendale six weeks ago and the little girl was taken ill last week and her death occurred Sunday. The L. G. Seavern Undertaking company was in charge of the funeral and burial.

GENE LEON CLARE

Changes Will Simplify Work
Of Election Officers at Next Election

The work of the election boards will be simplified at the next general election in Tujunga by the vision of the district into two precincts, with Sunset boulevard the dividing line from the north end to Michigan avenue, Michigan avenue to Hillhaven road and along this road to the dividing line between townships 14 and 15 along this line to the bank. Supervisor Wright had representative in town recently, making a survey of the situation, and this representative has recommended the above division.

The dividing line is very clearly described and under its arrangement the count of ballots can be completed in a shorter time than heretofore.

Mr. Hilborn, representing the openhouse Rodome hotel system, is seen in Tujunga gathering information relative to the establishing of one of the hotels here. He is also planning to discuss the advisability of establishing a hotel here, but has not announced any definite plans.

Dr. Spates, who, at the time, was in favor of joining a venture in this nature, has reconsidered and will not offer his property, known as the Rancho Hinata, for the building. He plans to build up-to-date sanitarium at some later date.

Celebrates Birthday

Although not fully recovered from an illness brought on several weeks ago by a severe cold and complications, F. A. Graham is able to celebrate his birthday joyfully at home Sunday. Walter Ames of Los Angeles, a friend of many years, was a guest at dinner. Other callers during the day were Mr. and Mrs. Hubert A. Wood of 809 South Verdugo road, Glendale; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley A. Wilson of South Pasadena; Greg Newhouse and Dora Graham of Los Angeles.

Yards Cleaned Up

The clean-up week set aside by the Tujunga Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of cleaning up yards and rubbish and inflammable brush and debris ended yesterday. Many lots and yards have been much improved in appearance and rendered negligible as fire hazards, which was the principal object of the campaign. A grass fire cannot start where there is no grass and as the fire menace is a serious one, the great degree of safety has been achieved where the clearing has been done.

Two business houses, the Sun-Fair and the Tujunga Dry Cleaning Works on Sunset boulevard, have been undergoing alterations that will improve their appearance and utility. The cleaning establishment is being enlarged to accommodate the increasing volume of business. Work on the new store and at office building is progressing rapidly on Sunset near El Centro. J. Smith, contractor, expects to have this building ready for occupancy in sixty days.

Allan D. Goldman leaves this week for a visit with his parents in Grand Rapids, Michigan. He expects to be away about a month.

SUNLAND

MEYERS-CALHOUN
BOUT TO SIZZLE

Fire and Fog Will Meet in
Main Event on Friday
At Twin Pines

A good-looking card of boxing has been arranged by Louis Waite for his Twin Pines pavilion show at Sunland next Friday night, August 3.

Johnny Meyers, the Glendale fire eater, and Kid Calhoun of San Francisco, will step in the main event. These two represent the two extremes—Meyers with fire and Calhoun with fog, which should make things sizzle when they meet. Meyers stopped Canadian Carter on his last appearance here and Calhoun also bested this battler, so the coming argument should be interesting.

The complete card follows: Johnny Meyers vs. Kid Calhoun, 150 lbs.; Sailor Mack of Denver, Colo., vs. Kid Chili, Vernon Athletic club, 145 lbs.; Earl King of Glendale, vs. Jack Burns, Lyceum Athletic club, 135 lbs.; Young Welsh vs. Packy Flynn, 124 lbs.; Wes Aggie vs. Bat Cash, 125 lbs. The curtain raises at 8:30.

Postmaster Leaves
The Monte Vista Inn of Sunland, one of the refreshment and amusement places there, has been given up by Dr. Hodgson, who left Sunland recently.

This will bring up the question of a new postmaster, as Dr. Hodgson had acted in that capacity. Previous to his appointment the postoffice was in Wertz's grocery store for many years and would be welcomed back there again by the proprietor.

There is a strong sentiment in favor of having Mr. Herron or Herron's Sweet shop, appointed. In that event the office would probably be moved to his place of business on the state highway near Sherman avenue.

Noel K. McVine, Star automobile dealer, attended the second banquet of the Star dealers of Los Angeles county, recently given at the Los Angeles Athletic club in Los Angeles.

The Warrington property in the Lazy Lonesome tract has been purchased by Ira S. Towle, who came to Los Angeles recently from Minneapolis. He is planning on going into business soon either in Sunland or Tujunga.

Ella Stonehouse of Nebraska is visiting her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. George Lewis, during a vacation trip to California that will include Yosemite, San Francisco and Catalina Island. Mrs. Stonehouse expects her husband to arrive the middle of August for a few weeks and to accompany her on the return trip.

Mrs. C. Salisbury to Vacation in North

Mrs. C. Salisbury of the Glendale Beauty Shop is planning an ideal summer trip north, leaving Glendale the middle of the coming week.

She will go directly to San Francisco by train and from there motor on north to Portland, Seattle, Vancouver and Victoria. She will be entertained by friends, and among the many pleasures she is anticipating is a sojourn at Mt. Rainier.

En route home Mrs. Salisbury will stop in San Francisco, where she will take a course in facial, scalp, hairdressing and marcelling work with specialists.

First key was made in 1336 B. C., and used in the palace of Eglon, king of Moab.

BAR WILLS FROM CRACK AT TITLE

Boxing Commission Passing
Buck on Negro's Chance
To Box Dempsey

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service
NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Some fine day, when Harry Wills is ancient and ring rusty and there isn't a remote chance that the honor of the white race will be impugned, there may be a bout between Harry Wills and Jack Dempsey, for the heavyweight championship of the world.

It isn't that Dempsey fears Wills, he merely suspects him. Men have been known to show a reasonable amount of respect for a rattlesnake even while they set about the business of exterminating it. They never go out of their way to meet the reptile, however. So it is with Dempsey. The New York state boxing commission has nothing against Wills. It went on record to this effect yesterday. But the commission, seemingly pledged to a policy of buck passing on the Wills issue, will continue to run around until a remote time. That time is not now. Therefore it is ordained that Harry Wills and Jack Dempsey will not meet within a period of a year, if ever. By the same token, it is just as certain now that the champion will face Luis Firpo, September 14, as announced. Without committing itself about either case, the commission made the status of both perfectly clear yesterday.

Wills Going Back
"I don't think there's a public demand for a Wills-Dempsey bout," said the eminent Mr. Rickard today. "However, I would be willing to promote such a bout next summer if I were sure it could be made to pay."

Rickard may have the right idea at that. By next year it is possible Wills will have aged sufficiently to render the bout acceptable. The negro has been of the ring six months and his last appearance gave evidence of physical decay. He has not faced a good man in more than fifteen months. In another year, Harry Wills may reach the point where Jack Rickard himself will be willing to meet him, winner take all.

Tiger Sluggers Score Twelve Off Senators

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The Tigers were in a slugging mood here yesterday, poking out nineteen safeties in the first start of a double-header with the Senators, and won handily, 12 to 5. Although they had the game on ice when they went to bat in the ninth frame, the Tigers put six more tallies across in the final minutes of play, just for good measure.

Philly Hurler Holds Reds to One Tally

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Aug. 1.—Twirling air-tight ball throughout, Ring, of the Phillies blanked the Reds in every inning except the sixth of the better half, the pitcher of a bargain bill here yesterday, and the Philadelphia locals won 2 to 1. Ring held the locals to five safe hits.

Giants Score Over Pirates by 5 to 4

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 1.—The Giants scored twice in the first frame, and thrice in the third frame of their game with the Pirates here yesterday and were headed, winning 5 to 4. The Buccaneers scored all of their runs in the seventh inning.

Braves Beat Bruins In 6 to 3 Contest

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Displaying a vicious punch in the first frame of their game with the Cubs yesterday, the Braves had slight difficulty in trimming the Bruins, 6 to 3. Barnes, who went the distance for the visitors, was rapped for nine hits.

WILLS

SPORTS CHATTER By BILL UNMACK PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

The eyes of the tennis world center on the play for the Davis cup—emblematic of the tennis championship of the universe. The non-tennis player wants to know who plays who, and what countries strive for the cup, and are equally interested with those who know an "ace" from a "lob."

It is not a hard matter for the old-timers to look back and marvel in the changed aspect tennis has taken on. Thirty years ago tennis was looked on as a great deal as is croquet today—a game for invalids and weaklings. In those days there was none of the science of today. Rallies were the rule, and the "placing" of today was practically unknown. A ball that goes back and forth over the net a matter of three or four times nowadays is a rarity. There was no slashing service. There was practically only one stroke. Volleys were considered more or less a breach of etiquette.

Tennis in those early days was a softened style of game with all the work done from the back court. It was a rally back and forth, and many times the ball would cross the net scores of times before one or the other of the players would miss a shot or make a foul. It was a game for the "leisure class," and served more to fill up a gap at a social function than anything else. It went with afternoon luncheons, tea and dancing.

Through what is generally conceded to be the stupidity, or shortsightedness, of his manager, Eugene Criegel, the French featherweight boxer, lost the certain opportunity of making several hundred thousand dollars for himself as a result of having gained the featherweight title. Now the chance has gone forever.

When Criegel defeated Kilbane a few months ago and won the featherweight championship of the world, sportsmen were unanimous in declaring that the only possible move to be made by the champion and his manager was to return immediately to France.

Wearing the title, Criegel would have been the idol of the hour, and there would have been nothing that Frenchmen could not have accorded to him. He could have picked up money right and left in a hundred different ways, and in a matter of six months would have amassed a fortune.

No champion ever has been asked to risk his title in three months. Practically every champion has taken a year or more in which to exploit a title for pecuniary gain. Nothing would have been said had Criegel made hay in

A match today takes approximately an hour, or a little more to complete. Back in 1885 a match was recorded played at San Rafael, Cal., between Percy Murdoch and W. P. Collier, then recognized as California's best tennis player, that took four and one-half hours of actual playing before the five sets were completed. Collier finally winning 4-5, 7-5, 6-0, 10-8, 12-10.

About this same time the first record of a "volley" being made and recognized as a legitimate stroke also comes into being. Joe Cooke and W. F. Williams were playing for the championship of the California Lawn Tennis Club. Cooke had won the first set, 6-1, and was leading the second, 5-2, and 40 love, when Williams was forced to the net by a weak return. He recovered the ball and started back for the base line, but Cooke lobbed the ball a few feet over his head. Up to this time a volley never had been seen on a court, and Williams as a last resort hit the ball in midair. Cooke, seeing a shot of this kind made for the first time, dropped his racket, walked off the court and defaulted—later explaining that "I simply cannot play against such phenomenal tennis."

There were no organized tennis associates in those days, but in the early '90s competition was simply among clubs of districts only. Nothing international or even inter-sectional was thought of. Times have changed.

France while the sun shone for a matter of six months. He then could have returned to this country, ostensibly to seek another match, and while this was in the making, could have toured the country via the footlights and in other ways for another six months.

Instead of all this, the finish has been a drab one. With the crown hardly settled on his head, he enters into another fight only to have it shaken off and the chance of making tens of thousands of dollars gone from him forever.

All the encomiums heaped on the head of the game little Frenchman for the brave stand he made against Dundee never will recompense him for what he has lost. The praise no sooner is uttered than he is forgotten, for a better fighter drops almost instantly into an oblivion from which few ever return.

There is no doubt that the victory of Dundee was an immensely popular one. He is a smart, clean living little chap who is a credit to the fighting game. By the same token, Criegel has the sympathy of the sports public, not only because he lost his title, but, also,

Play in Wimbledon Event
Shows Title Will Remain
On Foreign Courts

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
For International News Service

LONDON, Aug. 1.—It is about time "Little Bill" Johnston, Vincent Richards, Francis Hunter and other American tennis sharks who seek honors on foreign courts got a little help from the feminine contingent.

There was very little nourishment from a patriotic American in the showing made by the women tennis players from the United States in the recent tournament at Wimbledon. In fact, the Wimbledon show served but to emphasize the pressing need for a new crop of American women capable of giving effective opposition to their foreign sisters on the tennis courts.

Unless she is able to do that scarce and uncommon feat known as a "come-back" it is evident that Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory has passed the prime of her career as a championship player. She was beaten by Mrs. Beams, a sturdy British woman, who is not regarded by her own countrywomen as anything more than a good average player. If she had not been helped a lot by Vincent Richards, Mrs. Mallory would never have gotten as far as the semi-finals in the mixed doubles. With all due respect to her past achievements, which are written indelibly in tennis history, Mrs. Mallory is presently "out" as far as future international championship competition is concerned.

The only other American woman to make a creditable showing in the Wimbledon tourney was Miss Elizabeth Ryan. Miss Ryan had the distinction of figuring in the championship pair in two doubles events. She and the incomparable Suzanne Lenglen won the women's doubles title for the fifth consecutive time, and, paired with L. Lycett, the Englishman, she won the finals in mixed doubles. In the singles event Miss Ryan went to the semi-finals before she was eliminated by Miss Kitty McKane, the English champion.

Except for Miss Ryan, the American women players virtually were nowhere. Miss Ryan really played a better game than Miss McKane in their singles match, but the "breaks" went against her. It would not have done her much good to win, however, for it would have been a miracle if she had beaten the fair Suzanne had she met her in the finals.

Lenglen, despite the disastrous impression she left behind in her unfortunate visit to America, is the premier woman tennis player of the world. She romped through the Wimbledon meeting with almost ridiculous ease and was never in danger of losing her title, which she has held for five years.

Miss McKane, the young British because he was stupidly bereft of a fortune which might just as well have been his, and which every body naturally supposed he would go about collecting in the now understood customary way.

British Women Come For Net Tournament

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 1.—All preparations have been made to welcome the team of English women lawn tennis players due to arrive here today to compete in the invitation tournament of the Seabright Tennis and Cricket Club. The visitors are scheduled to arrive in New York today on the Franconia, and will leave immediately for Seabright. They are Miss Kathleen McKane, British champion and foremost rival of Suzanne Lenglen; Mrs. Geraldine R. Bemish who has beaten Mrs. Mallory several times; Mrs. R. C. Clayton and Mrs. R. O. Covel.

AIRPLANE MAIL

Mail heretofore transported by steamers between two important cities in Colombia is from one to two weeks now is being carried by airplanes in from twenty-four to thirty hours.

player, who opposed Mlle Lenglen in the finals, is a capable former and should develop into a much better one. But without Miss McKane England has two future stars in Miss E. L. Colyer and Miss Joan Austin, a pair of bobbed-haired youngsters, who fought their way to the finals in the women's singles and provided the real spice of the Wimbledon meeting. It may be one of this precocious pair who will be the winner on that inevitable day when the mighty Suzanne meets her Waterloo. But, unless a new star flashes in the firmament, it is certain to be a long day before an American woman wins any titles in overseas competition.

"Little Bill" Safe
On the masculine side the shoe, as they say, is entirely on the other foot. "Little Bill," on his showing at Wimbledon, could deteriorate about twenty-five per cent and still be good enough to account for any foreign competition that has bobbed up so far. The day may not be so far distant when Vincent Richards will hang Johnston's scalp to his belt, but it is hard to conceive of any of the present-day European players doing it.

An eloquent commentary on the class of male tennis players in Europe to point out that Francis Hunter, who ranks ninth on the American list, was able to wage through the lot with more or less ease and meet Johnston in the "All-American" final.

Bobby Jones, Golf King, Is Popular

Bobby Jones

ATLANTA, Aug. 1.—Fourth in the dynasty of American amateur golfers who have held the national open championship stands Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., of Atlanta. And Robert, who has outgrown the juvenile Bobby—though Bobby he always will remain to American sport lovers—wears his honors with becoming modesty.

The achievements of the young Harvard student in the realm of golf have been an unprecedented, orderly progression. In his first open championship tournament he finished eighth. In the third he came fifth. In the fourth he came second, and in his fourth and most recent he tied with Robert Cruikshank, professional, for first honors.

Cruikshank fell before the unerring accuracy of Jones' drives and putts in the historic playoff at Inwood. Jones is the first amateur to wear the crown since Chick Evans triumphed seven years ago.

For seventeen holes at Inwood the two Bobbys fought on even terms. It was Jones' wonderful midiron record on the eighteenth which carried the title to Dixie for the first time since the royal and ancient crown was borne over the seas by the first successful golf freebooter from the states.

We do this because we want the ladies of Glendale and vicinity to acquaint themselves with the many unique features of this hair-cutting parlor, which is dedicated to better service for the people, and where all combs, brushes, towels, etc., are sterilized immediately after use, and where regular customers have individual service combs, brushes and linen.

SERVICE FOR CHILDREN

At this place hair-cutting of children is given special attention. As a rule children like to come here. Only expert hands touch their hair, and we exercise patience and care with them, so that they never dread the barber chair. Our location is very convenient for mothers who are down town on a shopping tour, and our modernly equipped and up-to-date shop is cool and comfortable. By all means bring the children here for their hair-cutting needs, and be sure that the job will be well done.

HARDING MAKES FURTHER GAINS

President Continues to Show Improvement, Is Report Of Executive's Doctor

Midnight, after the president had one to sleep. It was a quiet night about the Palace hotel. Consideration for the chief executive caused the Municipal Street railway company to issue orders to their motormen to cease clanging their bells while passing the hotel and noises from the street only faintly reached the eighth floor suite where Mr. Harding lay.

City Being Turned into National Capital

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—San Francisco today was rapidly turning into the summer capital of the United States.
With President Harding domiciled here for at least a week longer because of his illness, his official family is increasing rapidly. The arrival today of his friend and adviser, Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, brought the number of cabinet members in San Francisco to four. Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce; Hubert Work, secretary of the interior; and Henry C. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, are the other cabinet members here, having accompanied the president to Alaska. Attorney General Daugherty, who arrived shortly before noon, had planned to accompany the party back to Washington through the Panama canal. He has cancelled plans for returning to Washington. It was understood today, and will probably remain here until President Harding is able to travel.

The cabinet members, virtually the whole White House staff, is duty here. Secretary Christian is in charge of the official staff. Chief Clerk Judson Welliver is here, as is C. W. Smithers, acting executive clerk of the White House. In addition to the president's personal staff, the head of the army was in San Francisco today. General John J. Pershing, on an inspection tour of training camps, arrived here today from visiting Southern California camps. While here he will inspect local military organizations. At his request, functions in his honor will be quiet, on account of the president's illness.

W. S. Sprye, commissioner general of the land office in Washington, is another member of the official party in San Francisco. He has been a frequent caller at the presidential suite to inquire for the president's health.

There has been a constant stream of notables to pay their respects to President Harding. All have been received by members of the presidential party. Partisanship has been forgotten. United States Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, Republican, and ex-Senator James D. Phelan, Democrat, calling within a few minutes of each other. From morning until late a night, visitors and messages arrive.

The enforced stay of the presidential party here has revived talk of a "summer capital." The ease with which communication has been established and maintained with Washington, even from this city on the edge of the

CANADIAN PAPER PRAISES HARDING

W. E. Hewitt Sends The News Clipping From The Sun at Vancouver

Just now when the whole nation is concerned over the health and welfare of President Warren G. Harding, a letter comes from W. E. Hewitt, well known Glendalean and vice-president and treasurer of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, who is in Vancouver, B. C., bearing an editorial on Harding.

The excerpt, which is from The Vancouver Sun, appeared under the caption, "United States Lucky in Harding", and reads:
"America's president created a very favorable impression with Canadians; there is no question about it.
"For reasons of heritage and for sentimental reasons, Canada will always be part of the British Empire, but that should not prevent Canadians from seeking full advantage of the fact that the North American continent forms a single commercial trading unit and that Americans are our good friends and neighbors."
"The man who stepped ashore at Vancouver and in twelve hours won the people of Canada was hardly the man Canada expected. From United States press reports, Canadians had been led to believe that the president was simply a figure-head placed in office through political compromise. Our unsolicited advice to those Americans who have any such ideas is that they get acquainted with their president."

Take Full Measure
"From the lips of the lips of Republican and Democratic raps and having only goodwill to ask and receive, the Canadian public were able to take full measure of Warren Harding as a man. The president got through to the heads and hearts of Canadians with his homely truth that 'the best citizen was the man who was a good neighbor, and the best neighbor was the one whom we were friendly enough with to go and borrow a couple of eggs from.' A man with common sense enough to talk that kind of language and whose own life proves that he means what he says, is not the man who will lose his head because wheat goes up or down five cents, is not the public demagogue who is one day pandering to class and the next day to mass. He is the kind of man people look for when things get in a mess. Just now the world is fed up on alleged supermen as leaders and is looking for the Harding type."
"Canada believes the United States is lucky in Harding."

COMMENT That's All

Pleasures Of Vacations Wealth In News Columns Constructive Thinking Vision In Open Spaces By Gil A. Cowan

VACATIONS and how others enjoy them would provide a fiction writer with a world of copy, but to comment on other people's playful hours when you yourself are playing seems almost sacrilege.
Up in the Ventura mountains at Wheeler's Hot Springs, where the writer is sojourning, about a thousand others are enjoying the kindness of nature in California's wonderful sunshine and altitude.

Add to this the charm of the sea breezes blowing through the big trees, the running rills of hot and cold mineral water, as well as the more tasteless water of the dashing stream tumbling down to the ocean, and you have something to be thankful for.

One cannot help but wish President Harding, or any other beloved person of the people, could be here to enjoy the benefits of the Creator. But one thing the good Lord overlooked, and that was roads.
The state and county endeavor to make up for this deficiency, only to find there is not money enough to go round. For instance, the good people of Bakersfield and the southern section of the San Joaquin valley are only sixty miles from the sea coast, yet they have to go twice the distance because a little strip of twenty-five miles of mountain trail cannot be negotiated by automobile.

And one of the most beautiful drives along the coast, known as the Casitas pass, needs to be paved for safety. Here's hoping the federal government and the state government, and the counties as well, get busy and develop some more of California.

Southern California, of course, has been most susceptible to development. The growth of Glendale, for instance, was logical and discernible to anyone who ever sat down and studied a map. But few people read maps. Yes, fewer people actually digest what they read in newspapers.

A person who would study The Glendale Evening News each evening for general and local information, particularly regarding the trend of progress, would not only be a wise man, but wealthy as well.

It is fortunate, however, that all of us do not use our talents in waiting for some one to tell us something by which we can do something worth while. In fact, too many people are waiting for opportunity and doing nothing in this old world that is constructive. When you go on your vacation this summer take stock of yourself. It is a good time for retrospection and introspection at the same time, developing in yourself the ambition to "hit the ball" for another year.

Farsightedness may be obtained in the mountains, away from civilization. In Glendale one gets so interested in dodging traffic, talking to everyone who wants to talk and hashing up a daily menu of something readable.

Up among the trees and trails and rippling rills it is possible to judge things in their true light. A person realizes how puny is mortal man and his opinion, how insipid his power of description, and how ignobly this most enlightened race conducts itself.

DOPE IS STOLEN FROM PHYSICIAN

Other Contents of Medicine Case Returned Intact, Drugs Are Missing

About twenty-five grains of "dope" were stolen early last night from the medicine case of Dr. Paul S. Traxler. Owing to the darkness, Dr. Traxler did not notice the absence of his case when he entered his automobile in front of his office at 140-A North Brand boulevard for his home at 301 West Lorraine street about 9 o'clock last night.

The Glendale Evening News office was visited this morning by Dr. Traxler, who inserted a "liner" mentioning his loss. Meanwhile, F. H. Miller of 137 North Maryland avenue, who had found the case in the alley back of Dr. Traxler's office, had visited this office also and inserted a "liner" mentioning its recovery.

The contents of the case, which consisted mostly of medicine, remained intact—except for the absence of a phial containing about two and a half grains of tincture of opium and the hypodermic case. This contained ten or twelve quarter-grains of morphine and about ten quarter-grains of heroin. The value of the "dope" stolen amounts to about $10.

POSTPONE AIR MAIL

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Government plans to inaugurate continuous flying of mail airplanes to the Pacific coast, scheduled to have been put into execution today, have been postponed until August 20, it was announced at the federal building. The present method of transferring plane mail to fast trains at nightfall will be used until the schedule is effected.

Four Men Start Long Journey in Rowboat

PERU, Ind., Aug. 1.—Dr. J. B. Shoemaker, his son, Vernon, E. Clem and Dwight Howard are on their way from this city to New Orleans in a sixteen-foot rowboat. The boat is equipped with an outboard motor and a camping outfit. The trip will be made in leisurely stages down the Wabash, Ohio and Mississippi rivers.

POINTS OUT WAY TO WEDDED BLISS

English Author Outlines Way for Married Couples to Retain Happiness

LONDON, Aug. 1.—"Marriage is the only insurance that delivers policies against loneliness," declares W. L. George, noted English author.

George has been establishing something of a reputation for himself as a "love doctor," and has given a free prescription for happiness despite marriage. His advice to married folks is this:

Don't open each other's letters—you may not like the contents. Don't bore each other—change your conversation, change your interests; if you must, change your hair.

If you absolutely must be frank, do it in private.

Once a day say to a woman, "How beautiful you are."

Once a day say to a man, "How strong you are"—or, if you can't say that, say "How clever you are," because everyone believes that.

If it seems hard to be married to "him," remember that he is married to "you."

Find out on your honeymoon whether swearing or crying is the more effective.

Forgive your partner seventy times seven. After that burn the account book.

Burt C. Spears Family and Friends Enjoy Camping Trip in North

A vacation motor trip and outing of unusual pleasure has just been enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Burt C. Spears of 718 East Acacia avenue and a group of their relatives and friends.

There were three automobiles that left Glendale two weeks ago last Saturday. In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Spears the party included their son George Spears and wife and son Howard of Orange; their son Donald and his friend Dave Leigh of Gardena; and Misses Rosamond and Clara Biggart of Hollywood.

Yosemite valley was their destination and en route they stopped to visit relatives near Fresno. They camped five days in the valley and from there went on to Oakland and San Francisco.

Returning by the coast route they stopped at Santa Cruz, Monterey and Pismo Beach and arrived in Glendale Saturday night.

Study of German Is Taken Up In Schools

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Aug. 1.—St. Joseph high schools may take up the subject of German again as one of their regular courses at the opening of the fall term.

When the United States was engaged as one of the combatants in the World War there was a popular demand that the study of German be discontinued in the high schools. According to Stephen A. Tooley, a member of the school board, there is now a general demand that German be taught again. Nearly fifty persons have asked him about the subject, he says.

PRODUCE PALM OIL

The production of African palm oil will be encouraged in the Federated Malay states by the government granting land to planters.

that the city can take possession and make the necessary improvement as soon as possible.

"I presume the cost of these improvements will be taken from the school bonds voted for the improvement of streets in front of school property.

"Kindly advise me as soon as possible what the attitude of the school board is in reference to this matter."

BOARD PLANS TO ENLARGE SCHOOLS

Heating Contracts Awarded For Acacia and Central Schools at Meeting

The Board of Education met last night in its quarters at 107 1/2 A South Brand boulevard and discussed matters pertaining to the grammar school system until midnight. Board members present were J. D. Hibben of 123 East Laurel street, Mrs. Eva A. Barton of 318 East Mountain street and E. H. Learned of 1543 Glenwood road. Dr. P. O. Lucas of 1243 South Brand boulevard and Mrs. Nettie C. Brown of 201 Milford street were absent.

Final reports of surveys of the Cerritos school property was made by Edward M. Lynch of 408 North Jackson street. Following this report, the board requested Architect Arthur G. Lindley of 123 South Belmont street to prepare plans for the new unit to the Cerritos school. This is to be placed upon the original Richardson grant.

Let Heating Contracts Upon recommendation of Architect George M. Lindsey of 345 North Harvey drive heating contracts were awarded to the Hamill Radiator company for the Acacia school for $1000 and to the Potter Radiator company for the Central school for $1350.

The renovation of school desks was discussed. Acting Purchasing Agent Walter F. Hansen, who reported that the cost would be about $1.50 per desk, was instructed to have this work done where necessary. It was estimated that the total cost might amount to $1200.

A decision was reached to open bids next Tuesday night upon plumbing and painting for the addition for the new addition to the Columbus school and for the painting of the older portion of the Columbus school.

Repairs upon a storage room at the Doran school were authorized. These will cost about $160.

City Engineer Ben F. Dupuy, from whom the following letter was received, was invited to start the necessary proceedings for the widening of Kenilworth avenue adjacent to the new school site in the northwest section of the city:

Engineer's Report
"The city of Glendale has several requests for the improvement of Kenilworth avenue north of the Pacific Electric tracks and I think it will be greatly to the advantage of the school property if the connections to Glenwood road were improved before building is started on the property recently acquired for school purposes.

"As you know, Glenwood road is rather narrow at this point and the city will eventually require a deed from the school board for twenty feet on Glenwood road to make Glenwood road sixty feet wide.

"As soon as you receive title to this property, I will prepare descriptions for the land necessary for the adjacent streets and advise you according to law so

Brady's Reminiscences Of Early Days Tell of Hardships By Pioneers

AMONG the pioneers journeying across the plains via covered wagon in 1847, was a boy of 12 years, John Hyde Brady, now 88 years of age and a resident of Glendale at 505 North Brand boulevard. Today Mr. Brady is being enrolled in The Glendale Evening News Sunset Club and he will hold a place of honor, for his name is indelibly written in the history of the west.

Born in the state of Missouri in 1835, Mr. Brady came of a Scotch-Irish ancestry of the Presbyterian faith. The interesting story of this Missouri lad is recorded in a biography published by Mr. Brady in 1912 under the title, "Memory Pictures." It occupies a place on the shelves of the Glendale Public Library.

Mr. Brady begins his "Memory Pictures" with a sketch of his childhood on the Merrimac in Missouri. He says: "You must remember that all the country about was new. As yet, but any great numbers of people had migrated from the east, and the more developed and cultured southern neighbors and neighbors were few and far between. Towns were fewer, cities were unknown."

"Our nearest neighbor was three miles away and for miles around was a thick forest alive with birds and wild animals, such as a gray fox, squirrels, coons, possums, panthers and wolves."

No Corner Groceries.

"We all went to work to raise crops and sheep for food and clothing, for there were no 'corner groceries,' nor factories to supply our necessities. The farm and the farm-home and the willing hearts and hands were the factories of those early days."

"We planted corn, wheat, potatoes, peas, beans and all kinds of garden truck for food and raised cotton and flax for our clothing. We had also a flock of sheep and I was the shepherd boy."

"We planted, tended and picked the cotton; planted, gathered and baled the flax; 'minded' the sheep; sheared them; washed and combed the wool; spun and wove every yard of cloth used by the family. All worked early and late, summer and winter, that we might have plenty to eat and wear, and as we always had both, we were very happy. Nobody was poor, and the neighbor was one of the family in those pioneer days."

Trip Across Plains.

In telling of preparations for the trip across the plains, Mr. Brady writes: "Father bought a wagon and had a water-tight bed built on it, with hickory bows and good canvas cover. He also purchased a government spring carriage. The dear old farm and some of my early boyhood was sold with all its belongings, including the sheep, hogs, chickens and the unfit cattle and horses."

"It was early in April, in the year 1847. The neighbors and kindred from far and near were here to see us off, for we were going, never to return; we were saying our final good-byes; seeing one another for the last time! The hand shakings, the 'God blessings,' the kissing, the crying and sobbing! At last, after one long, lingering look and silent pressure of clinging fingers, we started, father and mother on the front seat of the carriage, some of the children behind; Jim beside the three yoke of young steers hitched to a wagon filled with food and bedding; I on horseback, with some friends to help me, getting the loose cattle and horses together for the start."

"Amid the cheers and waving of hands and handkerchiefs the procession started on its long journey across the plains, over the 'north-west wagon trail.'"

The story of the perilous journey across the plains is wonderfully told by Mr. Brady and is as colorful as the present filmization of Emerson Hough's immortal tale, "The Covered Wagon."

Included in Mr. Brady's recitation of experiences he tells of the stop at the Whitman mission. An account in The Glendale Evening News of July 20, 1923, tells of Mr. Brady's being honored recently at a great banquet given at Whitman College in Walla Walla, Wash., in commemoration of Dr. Whitman and his historic mission.

Stopped in Oregon.

The Brady party remained in Oregon during 1848 and in the spring of 1849, when the roads were passable, started for California.

Mr. Brady says of this trip: "The journey from Oregon to California was to me, I think to all, very nearly a picnic; plenty of grass, water, food and game, and the stock all fat. We arrived at Fremont, at the junction of the Sacramento and Feather rivers, about the first day of July, 1849. Gold had been discovered in 1848, and there was a great rush of people from all parts of the world. The Nevada and Grass Valley placer mines had just been opened up and men were flocking there."

"We hitched up our two ox teams and loaded the wagons with flour, bacon, beans, picks, shovels and such other mining necessities and started for the mines. We took the first wagons and first load of provisions that ever went to Nevada and Grass valley. It meant only about a week to make the journey there and return."

"This was a very profitable business, and we made trips just as often and fast as we possibly could. During one trip my wagon netted over $500. Everything was very high. Flour was $1 a pound, with bacon and other things in proportion. A man was hired to drive Jim's team a while at $16 a day in gold dust."

"We had no coin in those days. We paid everything with gold dust, weighed out, an ounce of pure gold counting for $16." January, 1850, found the Brady family settled on 160 acres of wild land in the beautiful Santa Clara valley, ten miles west of the old mission of San Jose and six miles from the Santa Clara mission. They had boated down the Sacramento river to San Francisco, while Mr. Brady related that he went by land with the wagons and stock."

He says, "When father was in (Continued on page 6)

HEAD OF SCHOOLS SUBMITS REPORT

Superintendent White, in His Annual Statement, Gives
Facts and Figures

The annual report of Richard D. White, superintendent of the Glendale grammar school system, was accepted last night by the Board of Education.

"The outstanding feature of the school year," he remarks, "has been the large increase in attendance, necessitating the employment of thirty-four more teachers than were employed the previous year and resulting in crowded conditions everywhere."

"During the year Glendale has maintained twelve schools, employing 118 teachers and fifteen janitors and repair men. We have also maintained nine kindergartens, employing twelve teachers."

"The Wilson avenue and Glendale avenue schools have had only the seventh and eighth grades. The Broadway, Columbus and Cerritos avenue schools have had all grades from the first to the sixth inclusive and opportunity rooms. They have also maintained kindergartens."

Various Grades.

"The Colorado, Pacific, Central, Doran and Acacia avenue schools have had the first six grades and kindergartens."

"The Grandview school has had grades one to six inclusive."

"The Magnolia school has had grades one and two and a kindergarten."

"The administrative work of these schools has been conducted by the superintendent and the twelve principals. In addition, there is a vice-principal in each of the intermediate schools. The principals of all schools except the Wilson avenue, Glendale avenue and Columbus avenue, in addition to performing all of their administrative duties, have taught either full or part time. This system has reduced the cost of administration to a minimum."

Teaching Expense.

The cost of teaching each pupil during the past year, according to this report, amounted to $55.63. The cost per pupil for all other expense was $17.35. This made a total cost per pupil of $75.98. As there were 178 actual school days last year, the cost per day per pupil was approximately 42 cents."

The valuation of real estate and buildings owned by the Board of Education amounts to $688,420. Furniture, apparatus and equipment are valued at $61,640 and school libraries are valued at $7,033. This makes a total valuation for school property of $757,143."

The complete faculty of the local school system consists of a superintendent, six supervisors, thirteen special teachers and ninety-nine teachers, including principals. The annual payroll for this faculty amounts to $200,302.98. In addition, the twelve janitors and three repair men receive a total of $21,183.51. The total payroll amounts to $221,486.49."

School Expenditures.

Expenditures for the school year of 1922 to 1923 are itemized as follows: General control, $13,316.21; teachers' salaries, $197,290.19; other expenses of instruction, $11,870.00."

Member Of Sunset Club Shows Keen Interest In Events Of Present Day

THERE is no sweeter, more enjoyable "grandmother" in Glendale than Mrs. Caroline Frances Wilcox, 85-years of age, who makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. Ina W. Ostrander, and family at 435 West Vine street, and who has been added to the membership of the Glendale Evening News Sunset club. She is a bright-eyed little old lady, who greets you with a smile and warm hand-clasp and chats as interestingly of twentieth century events as she does of the days long gone by.

Caroline Frances Fox was born December 30, 1837, in Richland county, Ohio, one of four girls in a family of six. When she was thirteen years of age death robbed the family of the mother, and the father and children moved to Shelby county, Ohio.

There Caroline Frances grew to young womanhood and, after an education in the country schools, she was sent to Oberlin College, where she was in attendance when the Civil War broke out and it was necessary for her to return home.

It was one of the "Boys in Blue" who won her heart and at the close of the war she was married to Edmund Wilcox, who had served with the Iowa volunteers.

Came to California.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox lived first in Iowa City and later in Nebraska, and twenty years ago came to California and made their home in Exeter and Lindsay. They had four children, three of whom are living. Mrs. Ina W. Ostrander of Glendale, Mrs. Mary Graham of Visalia, and Park Wilcox of Seattle, Wash. "Grandma" also has ten grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

One of the blessings of Mrs. Wilcox's old age is her fine eyesight, which enables her to read much. When asked what she liked to read she replied: "Anything! I begin with the morning paper and then I enjoy current magazines and books." She has read widely during her entire life and as a consequence has a fund of information on almost any subject.

Moves to Glendale.

It was only three months ago that "Grandma" came to live in Glendale. Up to that time she had lived alone in her own home at Lindsay. During her long residence there she had made a wide circle of friends. One of her most loved activities was at attendance at the Christian church.

In addition to reading she thoroughly enjoys the modern "movie" and, while not caring to see every picture, she is always on hand to accompany her grandsons to "the show."

Mrs. Wilcox is anxious that the members of the Sunset club should have an informal meeting and social time some one of these afternoons, and it is hoped that her suggestion can be carried out.

NOTED CRITIC TO LECTURE ON ART

'California Artists' Will Be Speaker's Subject at Public Library

The Glendale Art association will hold an open meeting at the Public Library, 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, August 4, with Mrs. Julia Steelman Nichols, a prominent Californian artist and collector, as the principal speaker, announced Mrs. Roy M. Ballagh, president of the association.

Mrs. Nichols' topic will be "Californian Artists" and she will illustrate her remarks by means of the twenty-one paintings now on exhibition at the library.

The public is cordially invited to attend this meeting. Mrs. Ballagh states, and is urged to come to the juvenile room of the library and see the exhibit of Californian art hanging there."

This exhibit will continue throughout August and will be of particular interest to Glendale people by reason of the fact that six local artists are represented. They are John W. Cotton, Walter L. Cheever, Mrs. S. J. Lane, Mrs. A. B. Phillips, Mrs. Johanna Armstrong and Mrs. Roy A. Ballagh.

Set Picnic Date.

In addition, the exhibit represents the work of such noted artists as Benjamin C. Beaman, Grenville Redman, H. Puthoff, F. M. Cuprien and Emma Hill, the latter two of the Laguna Beach colony.

Mrs. Ballagh calls attention of the Laguna picnic of the Glendale Art association, to be held Saturday, August 25. All members desiring to go should be at the Public Library at 7 o'clock that morning. Those desiring to remain over the week-end may communicate with Mrs. Ballagh at Laguna Beach a week previous to the date of the picnic, when she will arrange accommodations for them at Tent City.

Mrs. Anna McIntyre, vice-president of the association, will preside at Sunday's meeting, as Mrs. Ballagh is now at Laguna Beach.

Autoists Report Two Collisions to Police

Two minor collisions occurred during the past twenty-four hours in Glendale, according to the records of the police department.

S. J. Clausen, Jr., of 257 North Maryland avenue, was driving east on Los Feliz road about 4:30 yesterday afternoon. When a Pasadena-Ocean Park bus stopped at the Southern Pacific crossing, he was obliged to stop quickly. The driver of the car behind claimed that he did not see his signal. Damage was slight.

Broadway and Verdugo road was the scene of a collision about 8 o'clock this morning between automobiles driven by H. A. Cookson of 121 North Belmont street and Oliver S. Scott of 6401 Pasadena avenue, Los Angeles.

TRUANT OFFICER TELLS OF DUTIES

L. T. Rowley Makes Report
On Year's Activities to School Board

The annual report of L. T. Rowley, attendance officer for the local school system, was received last night by the Board of Education.

According to this report, ninety-four truancies were investigated. This number was divided among the schools as follows: Broadway, four; Columbus, one; Cerritos, five; Doran, five; Glendale avenue, twenty-six; Grandview, six; Wilson avenue, forty-seven.

"Two cases of subnormality were received," states Mr. Rowley. "Following your advice and after consulting the county superintendent's office at your suggestion, one from Broadway and one from Grandview were expelled. As viewed from the department of attendance, two separate departments seem needed—a school for subnormal pupils conducted by the county; also separate schools for pupils not of a stage of delinquency to be made wards of the juvenile court."

"One phase of my work was the clothing through city welfare of needy children and securing aid for those applying for work permits so that it was not necessary for them to leave school."

School Nurse Reports.

The annual report of Mrs. Helen S. Tupper, nurse for the grammar school system, was received last night by the Board of Education.

According to this report, Mrs. Tupper examined 1,673 children in 330 school visits and found 647 defects, 125 of which have been improved and fifty-eight are being improved this summer.

The number of children referred to physicians were listed as follows: Defective vision, 134; diseases of eyes, eleven; pediculosis, fifteen; hearing, nine; ears, one; lung trouble, twelve; defective breathing, fifty-seven; throat trouble, 243; defective teeth, 211; gland trouble, two; skin blemishes, fifty-three.

Communicable diseases among school children last year amounted to 474 cases. They were divided as follows: Measles, 261; chicken pox, 129; scarlet fever, thirty-three; diphtheria, twenty; mumps, eighteen; and whooping cough, thirteen.

About 113 children were excluded from school. This number is in addition to those who were kept home by their parents during illnesses. Altogether, 179 treatments were given and 1,214 health permits issued.

SAN JOSE, Aug. 1.—The San Jose Chamber of Commerce, Commercial Club, Merchants' Association and Santa Clara W. C. T. U. have responded to the appeal of apricot growers who are threatened with serious loss unless a sufficient number of pickers and cutters are procured to care for the fast ripening fruit.

The return trip will be made by way of New Orleans, with a stop at Galveston and the Grand Canyon. Mr. and Mrs. Packer and Miss Doris expect to be away from Glendale about two months, not returning until October 1.

During their absence, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Turcke will occupy their home on Riverdale drive.

In the east they will visit Atlantic City, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore and Atlanta, Ga. A stop will be made at Chattanooga to visit Mr. Packer's brother.

Property Owners Prepare Defense Against Alleged Unjust Claims In Court

THE Los Feliz Tax Protective Association was formed yesterday in the office of G. H. Wende, attorney, 102-A East Broadway, with Mr. Wende as counsel and Miss Ida F. Rittenhouse, of 208 1/2 West Chestnut street, as acting secretary, the purpose of the organization being to formulate a group defense of the property owners in the Los Feliz assessment district against the actions brought by Steddom and Blanchard, plaintiffs, of Los Angeles. The defense, Mr. Wende states, will attempt:

First—To round up and bring together all the hundreds of property owners who have been served with these actions, so that there may be no judgments by default.

Second—To prevent further actions, with additional costs. A test case will be made at once, an answer being filed on one of the actions, states Mr. Wende. This case will be fought on the grounds that personal demand was not made by the agent of the brokers, nor was ten days allowed to elapse from the time of demand until the bringing of suit, which is the requirement under the Vrooman act, if the contractor or assignees are to collect court costs and $15 attorney's fees.

Plans of Defence.

And, furthermore, according to Mr. Wende, the case will be fought on the grounds that one year did not elapse from time of assessment to bringing of suit, according to the alternative provided in the Vrooman act.

The major defense, Mr. Wende states, will be based on an affidavit, on file in the city clerk's office, Glendale, to the effect that the agent for the brokers entered upon each and every separate piece of property, and into each and every house thereon, and made a separate demand of the respective property owners for the amount of the assessment, from 9 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon of two successive days.

Inasmuch as there were 1362 separate assessments levied for the Los Feliz improvement, Mr. Wende believes it physically impossible for the agent of the brokers to have accomplished the performance certified in said affidavit.

Gets Extensions.

Mr. Wende states that he has already succeeded in getting extensions of the time limit on certain of the actions, and asks mortgage and trust-deed holders involved not to settle those actions until he has further exerted himself in an effort to reach a settlement.

In this respect, it is understood that Ray L. Morrow, city attorney, is making an attempt to negotiate some understanding between the Glendale property owners involved and the plaintiffs, Steddom and Blanchard, of Los Angeles. The city of Glendale, however, is said to be in no way involved in the matter, having taken over all liens to the contractors in settlement of the improvements made, at the time of completion of the work.

The contractors, according to Mr. Wende, turned over their contracts to a Los Angeles firm of brokers, and this firm notified the Glendale city clerk, A. J. Van Wie, of such assignment; but that the bulk of the property owners never knew the amount of their assessment and were served with the present actions before they had any opportunity to settle.

Counter Action.

The Los Feliz Tax Protective Association, through its counsel, G. H. Wende, intends to bring immediate counter action, and desires every property owner who has been served with such an action to get in touch with them at once, either through their secretary, Miss Rittenhouse, or through their counsel, Mr. Wende.

The next meeting of the association will be held at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, August 2, in the law offices of Mr. Wende, 102-A East Broadway, announces Miss Rittenhouse, when it is hoped that a large number of property owners who have been served with these actions will be present.

L. W. Chobe, of Sierra avenue, one of the property owners so served, and a member of the association, states that the formation of this body does not in any way indicate unwillingness on the part of the property owners involved to pay their assessments for the Los Feliz improvement. On the contrary, he states, they thoroughly believe in this assessment and have no objection to meeting it, their only argument being the addition to the original amount of $15 attorney's fees, $7 for filing, $3.50 for title search, together with additional court costs.

Assessments Swell.

In Mr. Chobe's case, an original assessment of $1.50 now stands at $30.25. Another property owner, with an original assessment of $5.20, had sufficient tacked on to bring up the total to $36.40. The majority of the other property owners involved have had their assessments swelled in like proportion.

The files of A. J. Van Wie, city clerk, show that resolution of intent on the part of the City Council to improve Los Feliz road, from the Southern Pacific right-of-way to Glendale avenue, was adopted June 5, 1922; and there is an affidavit in these files showing that assessment notices were mailed out to every property owner concerned, on June 16, 1922.

The property owners' claim, however, that no bills for the exact amount of the assessment were ever received by them; and that they had no knowledge of when their assessments were due and payable.

The Return of the Household God

TODAY'S SHORT STORY BY
Ad Schuster

The two china dogs, gifts of Ralph's wealthy aunt, were the pride of the Maynard household. For a long time they stood one at either end of the sideboard keeping a ferocious and grotesque guard over a polished expanse and a tiny clock. Ralph and Agnes gave them names and spoke of them lovingly. They became household gods and bore the honor with a solemn indifference.

Ralph Maynard regards that day on which he knocked Ah Wong, "guardian of the left wing," from its perch and broke it into some dozens of pieces, as the most tragic in his life. He knew as he looked at the scattered remains of the dog that the scattered remains of the dog that Agnes would be heart-broken.

For a moment Agnes could do no more than stare. She even tried to smile, then broke into tears.

"I know you could not help it," she sobbed. "But don't you see, the sideboard doesn't balance any more and Wing Fu will be so lonely!"

Indeed, wherever they put the survivor he looked disconsolate and aggrieved. They tried him in the center beside the clock, but his head was always turned and a question was ever in his eyes. It was all very foolish, they told themselves, but then, one's wedding presents were so precious and these had been their only costly ornaments. Ralph felt guilty every time he looked at the vacant place and told Agnes over and over he would search the stores of the city for another Ah Wong.

A number of things happened in the Maynard family after the departure of Ah Wong. There was a baby to occupy all the attention for a time, and then a raise in salary. Agnes planned to redecorate the house and consulted an expert who upset the Maynard ideas and triumphed with her own.

Their wedding anniversary appeared and found Agnes thoughtful.

"I have spent all of my allowance," she said, "and how can I ask him to buy his own present?" She carried the problem with her until the last day, then found a solution.

Ralph found her gift at his plate that evening and, in the accustomed manner, pretended he was surprised to learn this was their anniversary. As she had done for six years, Agnes feigned to be displeased that he had forgotten and awaited the usual development.

"You will be surprised to see what I brought you," he announced. "It is something that has been on my mind for a long time. You may have thought I had forgotten it, but not me. I'm not the man to forget our anniversary or any little promise I ever made."

Triumphantly he unwrapped a package and revealed a china dog.

"The lost Ah Wong," he announced with a flourish, "has returned to bring company and comfort to the house of Maynard and the bereaved Wing Fu!"

Agnes stared at the ugly image. Ralph could see she was deeply affected.

"Where—where did you find him?"

"Jinks & Bangs. I've looked there before. I've looked all over town. Ever since the catastrophe it has been my object to find a dog like the one I broke. You're pleased, aren't you?"

Agnes was so overcome that she laughed and cried and called him the best husband in the world.

The next day she took the china dog from the attic whence she had taken it but two days before. She thought of her the thing was out of place in the room and of her regret when she had hidden it away. Fearfully, she had waited for Ralph to demand its return. And this man who had never noticed, had been hunting the stores for such another dog.

"It's doubly a present now," she said, "and doubly dear, and I won't sell it again unless—unless I need the money very badly."

Heavy flat crepe, developed after the first model pictured, will place its wearer in the forefront of smartly frocked women of the season. Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

SPEAKING OF POPULAR SONGS

"What," my neighbor said to me yesterday, "do people mean when they say, 'Yes, we have no bananas today'?" Where does that phrase come from and what is the sense of it?"

"Where," said the author, "could it come from except from a popular song? And why do you demand any sense from a popular song? You have experience taught you that that is the place to look for sense?"

And starting from that we held a symposium on popular songs we could remember and their sometimes engaging and sometimes disgusting idiocies.

"And I Had But Fifty Cents!"

One of our earliest recollections (I will risk detection by admitting that I have a memory of hearing the flappers of that day sing it, though I insist that I was not old enough to sing it myself) was: "She said she wasn't hungry, but this is what she ate." Perhaps some Reader Friend who is not afraid to give data bearing on his age can help me remember exactly what she ate. Ice cream and cold cream, fish balls and cannon balls are all of her diet that still sticks in my mind. But of course I do know the tag line, "And I had just fifty cents."

The song which ended, "Can't get away to marry you today, my wife won't let me," was of the ironic class whose humor really seemed to have a little more sense behind it, and we all agreed that we had enjoyed that.

"Poor John" was another of the old popular songs that did not depend either on absolute idiosyncrasy or on sentimentality for its appeal, and that got a unanimous vote of thanks.

The Tree Song

The tree songs were an interesting example of the way one song may breed a whole litter. I thought the original ancestor was "Under the Bamboo Tree," but my neighbor reminded me of "In the Shade of the Sheltering Palm," a rather serious affair as we remembered it. But from the seed of the palm came several kinds of trees, some sentimental and some

BLEACHING THE SKIN

If you have a dark or sallow skin and want to make it whiter, I'd suggest the following treatment. First, as the sallowness may have an internal cause, take a tablespoonful of white mineral oil every night; or eat a teaspoonful of agar-agar every day mixed with your food, so you'll be certain the eliminative functions of the body are in proper order. Often this is enough to make a muddy skin quite clear and white.

If it isn't, while you are still pursuing this treatment, and eating lots of salad and fruit and fresh green vegetables as well, try external bleaches. Make up my cleansing cream formula, but put in cucumber juice instead of rose water. Make a cucumber lotion—the formula was given in this column recently. Buy some oatmeal soap, and some oatmeal powder, or powdered oatmeal, as some drug stores call it—and make up dozens of little bags from cheesecloth with a handful of oatmeal tied in each. Buy a bottle of peroxide. Then you're ready for the treatments.

Cleanse the skin first with the cream, wipe it off, and wash the face with hot water and the oatmeal soap. Rinse, first in hot, then cold water. Dilute a little peroxide with cold water (about half and half), soak a little sponge in it and rub this all over the face, neck and other parts to be bleached. Wipe off—and that's all. But at night use the cucumber lotion instead of peroxide. Use the bags in your bath one in each tubful.

This isn't a difficult treatment, and the results will delight you. The peroxide is drying, but that is counteracted by the first use of cream. Everything in this treatment cleans and clears the pores, makes them invisibly fine, drains off whatever is causing sallowness and dinginess, gives the blood a better chance to circulate and lend its pink glow to your cheeks—in short, rejuvenates your complexion.

A. B. C.—A daily cold shower at this season of the year will do much to overcome this tendency to excessive perspiration.

C. C.—It will take time to eradicate those scars left from squeezing blackheads. Use witch hazel on the face several times each week, especially after shaving.

Learn to Use Peroxide and keep the skin clear by taking daily full hot baths, since nothing so relieves the skin of the face as to keep the whole body freely eliminating. Watch your diet, too.

Fanny—The advice to C. C. applies to your case also.

Tomorrow—The Medicine and Beauty Cabinets

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

There is a difference of opinion among physicians about giving meat to young children. Many of them teach that it is better for children under seven years not to have any meat, while others advise small amounts of scraped beef and other tender meats as early as the second year.

It is true that meat, being a high animal-protein food, is more liable to putrefaction in the intestines than other proteins. And it is also true that meat has waste products which vegetable proteins do not have.

Cattle and pigs may be infected with tape worm embryos, and pigs may also be infected with trichina, which is a very pernicious round worm. If the meat from these infected animals gets on the market and is eaten without thorough cooking, it may infect the consumer. If there are enough inspectors and they are efficient, meats of this character do not get on the market.

Pork, in any form except bacon, is not advisable for children. But beef and other meats are often advised. They stimulate the appetite so that more food is taken and they are easily digested. They should not, however, take the place of milk in the diet. Vegetarians—or, rather, the lacto-vegetarians; those who take milk and eggs—have proved that it is possible for us to get along without the animal proteins of meat or fish. But special care has to be taken to see that sufficient animal protein in the form of milk and eggs is taken, because vegetable proteins are not complete. That is, they will not support all the needs for growth and repair.

McCullum has proved that with the omnivorous type of animal—and man is omnivorous—it is very difficult to derive the diet solely from the vegetable kingdom. That is because the digestive tract is not large enough to care for the amount of leafy foods necessary to balance the diet and to supply

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

Mrs. Ann Webster, chairman of the Social Hygiene Committee of the National League of Women Voters, has recently returned from a tour of Europe and Asia. She went abroad to attend the International Woman Suffrage Alliance in Rome.

"The modern girl all over the world today is a wiser, better, happier girl than her grandmother or great-grandmother ever was," says Mrs. Webster. "I found the same wholesome girls everywhere. They dress and act the same in Europe as they do here, but then I have always been a great believer in the modern girl."

Mrs. Webster also says that the woman in Europe is aware of the responsibilities which devolve upon her by the right of suffrage and is using her vote intelligently. European women like their American sisters, are following a modern trend.

Several prominent conductors were asked what they thought about it. Walter Damrosch, leader of the New York Symphony, thought that women were strong enough physically to stand the strain of long rehearsals and many concerts. Also that the fatigue of touring would be too hard on them. The manager of the Chicago orchestra felt the same way about it. Chicago, however, introduced and never give very much (not over an ounce).

Excessive meat eating with its train of harmful effects has been one of the serious dietetic mistakes of adults. So it is very essential not to permit children to get an excessive liking for meat.

Meats are high in phosphates and iron, but not high in lime and vitamins. They are digested into acid-forming elements and must be combined with the foods that are not acid-forming. The usual potato is an ideal combination with meat, because potato has high alkaline-forming elements, especially potassium. But this is not enough. A green leafy vegetable in goodly amounts should always tag along as a protector.

S. KIRK WRITES ABOUT CAMP LIFE

ty to Interest in Wilds of iant Forest, He Tells His Friends

S. Kirk of 1131 East Colostreet is enjoying a vacation at Marble Fork camp, Forest, California, and he been thoughtful enough to The Glendale Evening News of his summer pleasures. letter is not only of interest to many friends but to any Glendale contemplating visiting the north. He writes:

"Thinking this might be of interest to some of the Glendaleans, I am going to briefly outline some of the attractions of this spot.

We left Glendale Thursday, 12, and drove to Three Rivers via Ridge Route, Porterville, Exeter, arriving at the control 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon. We found there was no 2 o'clock control as published in the Los Angeles papers. We had to wait until 5:30 p.m. We reached temporary camp about 8:20, observing one of the most marvelous mountain routes en route from the check station.

Melting Snow Water
We are camped on the Marble Fork of the Kaweah river. The snow is melting, and I only Glendale could secure her water from this source. The bit of soap makes a plentiful supply.

The wild flowers are beautiful and seem to be in endless variety. No matter which way you go from camp, there is a sure to be a variety new to you.

From Moro rock one sees a stretch of mountain and valley the San Joaquin valley one of the great western divide. The latter with its bonelike appearance, where are still immense patches of the General Sherman tree, a sequoia, which is claimed to be the oldest living thing in the world, is wonderful. Another that has been felled by time the destroying force of nature large enough to drive your car for almost a city block.

Deer Very Tame
The deer are so tame they all through the camps. "Bill, a five-pronged buck, will eat your hand. The fawns are wildest, and here the expression as wild as a buck," does not mean. One morning Mrs. Kirk I had the interesting experience of observing a new-born all snuggled down in his bed.

and now a word to the fishermen. Since our arrival here we had 280 trout of lengths ranging from five to eleven and a inches, mostly seven and a inches. The varieties are bow, eastern brook, blackhead, steelhead, cut-throat, etc. rainbow predominate. Wish we could have sent you a few. Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Smith, Mrs. Kirk and I have camped all but about fifty of the fish. Most of the fishermen will tell you that you must camp with bait, but Mr. Smith go out with a royal coachman a brawn hackle and get his fish any old day. Mrs. Smith over on Silliman creek and the limit in a few hours. The "bear pit," garbage dump, very popular point of interest. It is there that bruins supreme.

Comforts of Home
There is a store, milk depot, her shop, vegetable stand, photographer, postoffice and a beer shop. The lodge serves meals and there are cottages for rent. We are camped five miles in the Giant Forest central park.

There is plenty of firewood, best of water, other necessary conveniences and endless places to or pack in, with a variety of beautiful scenery. We had as neighbors Mr. and Bert Cline and son of Glendale and Mr. and Mrs. Isabel and family of Burbank. Mr. and Mrs. H. Toll and sons are at Forest. Mr. Toll and the King's for a week in the rough. is a thirty-five-mile trip by train through some wonderful scenery. If you come up bring plenty blankets, for the nights are sty. Bring a sharp saw, for most of the wood is dry pine and

PROTEST CHARGE BY L. A. JOBBERS

Ask Chamber of Commerce To Help in Securing Free Deliveries

Protests against the practice of the Los Angeles Wholesale Jobbers' association of charging for delivery of merchandise shipped to Glendale, when, it is alleged, deliveries are made free of charge to Pasadena and Hollywood, were contained in a resolution from the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association, which was read before the weekly meeting of the board of directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce last night. The resolution asked that Glendale be placed in the free delivery zone, as, it was pointed out, it lies at a closer distance from Los Angeles and the Jobbing houses than some of the other places that are said to have free delivery, and it was intimated that Glendale purchasers are victims of discrimination in this respect. The Chamber of Commerce will appoint a committee to investigate the matter and report.

J. M. Jackson, William Hawthorne and H. C. Powell, executive officers of the Rogers Una-Drive Motor Truck corporation, now located at Sunnyvale, Cal., but who are planning to move their plant to Glendale, conferred with the directors last night, when the invitation that was extended to the firm in May was reaffirmed, and the corporation was again invited to establish its plant here, with the clear understanding that the Chamber of Commerce could not, as an organization, lend its endorsement to any plan that called for the sale of stock, but that, outside of this aspect, every possible encouragement would be accorded to the development of the industry here.

President Jesse E. Smith occupied the chair during the early stages of the meeting, but later turned the task over to Director C. D. Lushy, who introduced G. Clay Goodloe, a recent arrival from Lexington, Ky., whose appointment as field man for the Chamber of Commerce, to solicit new members and to aid in collecting for the service fund for advertising, was confirmed by the board last night.

Suit Denounced
Suits that have been filed against a number of property owners in the Los Feliz district, in which it is alleged the defendants have failed to pay small assessments against their property and in which, as a consequence, they now face action for many times the amount of the assessments, will be the subject of investigation by a committee consisting of A. R. Eastman, president of the Glendale State bank; D. H. Smith, manager of the Pacific Southwest Trust Savings bank; and L. H. Wilson, pastor of the Southern Glendale, and the committee will appear before the City Council tomorrow night and ask that some immediate action be taken to halt the proceedings. The action of the men who have started these suits was denounced strongly by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, and a number of the city's leading bankers and attorneys are now investigating the matter in order to protect their depositors and clients in every possible way.

A request was received from the Foothill Improvement association asking that the Chamber of Commerce lend its aid in securing the establishment of three crossings over the Pacific Electric tracks in the streets adjacent to the Grand View school, where the classes of young children are menaced by the trains when they cross the tracks. The matter will be taken up with the city engineer and steps will be taken at once to safeguard the school children attending the Grand View school.

Plans to secure the change of the name of West Glendale on the railroad siding and to have all shipments coming to this city billed solely to Glendale were urged in a letter from the Independent Lumber company, which protested against the switching charge that is made on every car shipped in here and also against the confusion that arises through the application of the name of West Glendale to a railway switch.

The rest of the meeting was largely routine work.

"A refined hair-cutting parlor for men, women and children," the Palace Grand Barber shop, 133 North Brand boulevard, makes the announcement that, beginning August 1 and continuing for two weeks thereafter, women's hair will be bobbed at the special price of 50 cents.

"All first-class shops charge 75 cents for bobbing hair," states George M. Young, proprietor of the shop. "And after this first two weeks' special offer, that will be our price. In offering the reduction, our aim is to acquaint the women of Glendale and vicinity with the many unique features of this modern hair-cutting parlor, which is dedicated to better service, and where all combs, brushes, towels and equipment are sterilized immediately after use, and where regular customers have individual combs, brushes and linen.

Abreast of Fashions
"We are, moreover, in constant touch with eastern hair authorities, and our experts will tell you frankly the latest fads, then advise what is most becoming in your particular case.

"We also make a specialty of cutting children's hair. And, of course, this is a man's shop, with the most expert barbers, straight from the leading hotels of the Pacific coast. THEATRES

THE GLENDALE
"The Town that Forgot God" at the Glendale Theatre for the last times today. This dramatic Fox film, made by Harry Harde, who directed "Over the Hill," was produced in New Jersey, an entire village being erected and swept away by the bursting of a dam containing 20,000 gallons of water, to insure the tremendously realistic and sequences. This one sequence alone should make every theatre-goer in Glendale want to see "The Town that Forgot God," feels Manager William A. Howe of the Glendale Theatre. In addition, the film is a powerful story of love between a mother and son, and love between man and woman. The theme of the picture is one calculated to make everyone think a little more deeply of the underlying facts of life, yet the picture is not morbid. The story is simple and elemental, sweetly and deftly told.

THE GATEWAY
"Sawdust," a Universal photodrama starring Gladys Walton, shows at the Gateway Theatre tonight only. It is a story of the Big Top, of circus life as seen and lived within the canvas walls. The story involves the adventures of a little circus girl who was taken from the environment of the Big Top and given a home with a lonely old couple who had lost their only child. A love interest develops between this little circus girl and a young lawyer of the town. "Sawdust" was written by Courtney Riley Cooper, who was for years publicity director for a big circus and knows the real atmosphere of circus life. Harvey Gates adapted the story to the screen and Jack Conway directed it. Gladys Walton is at her prettiest in "Sawdust," and she shows that she can act, too.

BERLIN, August 1.—Germany is suffering from "dollaritis." It used to be the favorite sport of anti-Americans here to refer to our people as "dollar chasers," and even now one often sees German newspapers refer to the United States as "Dollaria." But the greed for American money evidenced by the vast majority of 60,000,000 people with bitter minds and empty stomachs surpasses anything ever seen in the dollar's own homeland. Indeed, if the dollar ever has deserved the cognomen "almighty" it is here and now.

With the dollar begins and ends the vicious circle that spells economic chaos. A close second is the English pound. German industries have to pay for their raw materials, which they import from abroad, in dollars or pounds. To do so they must sell daily huge stacks of paper marks. That drives down the mark and raises the dollar on the exchange. As soon as the dollar rises prices are raised. Up to recently the rise of the price level has been due to the rise of the dollar, but since the dollar has shown itself capable of such jumps as from 80 to 150 thousand within three or four days, the price-fixers have come to anticipate such great and such constant increases that they bring the prices up to a level far out of proportion with the dollar rise. The result is that Germany is rapidly becoming one of the most expensive countries in Europe, even for foreigners. Similarly, the capitals of the rouble and the crown, Moscow and Vienna, respectively, are today exceedingly expensive cities.

The discrepancy between the dollar and prices, which formerly was in favor of the dollar, but now is fast turning against it, becomes particularly marked when the dollar falls, as it usually does after a sudden sensational rise.

The most graphic illustration of the fall of the mark is given by the Berliner Illustrierte Zeitung under the heading "A Sad Story in Five Pictures." The first picture shows three hefty bills standing beside a one-liter milk can, and the headline reads: "For 1,500 marks one used to be able to buy three head of cattle—today that is the price of one liter of milk (one-fourth of a gallon)." The next illustration shows a magnificent house beside a pair of shoes: "An elegantly furnished flower bed. Then we all cried and called to the gardener, and he came and drove him away."

"Well, I declare you had a pretty hard time, didn't you?" said the policeman, who sympathized with the poor fellow.

"And you are sure it was the east gate they went out?" the policeman asked.

"Oh, yes, sir! Sure!"

"When half-way across the park they stopped some little girls and asked them if they had seen two white goats as they came along."

"Yes, we saw them," replied one little girl, "and what one of them did!" And she held up for the policeman's inspection a bunch of flowers she had been carrying, with all the blossoms chewed off, and began to cry. "Look what the nasty old goat did! He ate up my bouquet that I was taking to my teacher!"

"And that isn't all he did!" chirruped one of the other little girls. "He started to chew off my braid of hair! See how wet the ribbon is! And I guess he would have chewed it off, but Elsie here gave him a big hit with a stick she picked up. Elsie is a brave girl, for if she hadn't done that he would have eaten the hair off my head. And what do you think he did to her? After he stopped chewing my hair he turned around and pushed her with his head, making her fall over into a

RADIO

A COURSE IN RADIO—CHAPTER 16
GENERATORS

Figure 1 shows the winding of a series generator. It is very easy to trace. We find the winding of the armature and fields are in series, and as the current flowing through the armature must pass through the fields, too, the windings of the field must be large, and have a low resistance. This type of generator is about obsolete.

this machine has two windings, one in series with the armature and the other in shunt or parallel to it. This is a combination of the shunt generator shown in the previous lesson and the one of Figure 1. The series coil being of large wire and having all the current of the armature flowing through it, increases the magnetic field when the load varies. If a heavy load is put on the increased flow of current in the armature also passes through the series field, this increase of current increases the number of lines of force cut by the armature, thus maintaining the voltage. The shunt winding has a variable resistance in series with it to vary the voltage of the generator.

The demand for high frequency currents (500 to 1,000,000 cycles) for radio purposes has created many new features in the design and construction of generators, the most notable being the Alexander high speed inductor type alternator. The rotor consists of a steel disk with a thin rim and a much thicker hub, shaped for maximum strength. Instead of having teeth on the edge, slots are cut on each side of the rotor very near the edge and do not extend entirely through the rotor disk.

The spokes of steel which remain for the inductors, and a solid rim of steel is left. To cut down the friction of the air at high speed at which the disk is operated, the slots are filled with a non-magnetic material and finished off smoothly with the face of the disk. The armature conductors are laid zig-zag in small straight open slots in the flat face of the iron core, this being perpendicular with the shaft.

The field flux passes through the iron frame, the laminated armature and the disk. The usual air gap is .015 inch. Any slight deviation from this, as soon as the armature conductors are laid zig-zag in small straight open slots in the flat face of the iron core, this being perpendicular with the shaft.

When a set won't work on low wave lengths the aerial resistance is too high, or the natural period of the aerial is too long. When soldering connections to jacks do not let the flux run into the insulating segments, as it will form a good leak for radio currents.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Last winter my husband's sister's husband died of influenza and she had to come to live with us. She is a girl who married when she was eighteen, just as soon as she finished high school and she has never worked. Her husband did not make much money and during the five years of their married life they did not save anything. My husband even had to stand the expense of the funeral. Although we have not a lot of money, we have always tried to save and get ahead. Now it is harder, of course, because my sister-in-law does not do anything and we have to board and clothe her.

Even my husband feels she ought to go to a commercial school or get some other kind of position, but he won't mention it to her. I am afraid she would never forgive me if I suggested such a thing. I really don't know so far apart in so short a time I'll just ask the gardener who drove off the goats and in which direction they went."

[Tomorrow you will be more puzzled than ever about Billy and Nannie.]

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I cannot understand the young people of today. I have a sweet little daughter who is seventeen years old. She does not paint and go out nights the way other girls of that age do nowadays, and to me she is an unusually pretty girl. She always learned quickly in school and was considered clever by her teachers. She is a good leader and full of ideas and imagination. But the poor child is not happy. MRS. G. D.

Your sister-in-law may resent advice from you at the time it is given, but in the end she will be so much happier leading an independent life that she will more than forgive you. It will be more generous to offer her the opportunity to attend commercial school in preparation for a position, and I hardly believe she will resent such a suggestion.

Things cannot go on in the way they are now, because all of you will grow dissatisfied. It is not just that your sister-in-law should settle down on her brother to be supported indefinitely.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

BY HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE OWL

Uncle Wiggily was sitting on the porch of his hollow stump bungalow late one afternoon, and he was twinkling his pink nose and wondering what Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy would give him to eat, when, all of a sudden, he heard his muskrat lady housekeeper call out:

"Dear me! I forgot all about it!"

"What's that?" asked Uncle Wiggily, sitting up straight in his chair. "I hope you haven't forgotten to get supper, Nurse Jane."

"No, not exactly," answered the muskrat lady. "But I forgot to get some sugar when I was in the five and ten cent store today. So unless you hop through the woods and ask Mrs. Twistytail, the lady pig, to lend me some sugar, you'll have none for your tea."

"I'll hop to Mrs. Twistytail's," said the bunny uncle. "I like sugar in my tea."

"Don't be gone long," begged Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, as Uncle Wiggily started to hop away. "It will soon be dark and I don't want to be left alone."

"I'll hurry back," promised Uncle Wiggily, "for I want my supper." And away he hopped, whistling a jolly tune. He had not gone far into the woods before, all of a sudden, he heard a voice ask:

"Who? Who? Who?" or at least it sounded like that.

"My name is Longears! Mr. Uncle Wiggily, Longears!" answered the bunny gentleman.

"Who? Who?" asked the voice again.

"LONGEARS! UNCLE WIGGILY LONGEARS!" and this time the bunny rabbit gentleman fairly shouted.

"Softly! Softly!" spoke the voice. "I am not deaf!"

"Then why did you ask: who? who? so often?" Uncle Wiggily wanted to know. "Why did you ask my name?"

"I wasn't asking your name," came the laughing answer. "You see I am a hooting owl bird, Uncle Wiggily, and that is the call I always give when evening comes. We owls hoot, or cry so that it sounds like 'who! who! who!' I didn't mean to bother you."

"Oh, that's all right," laughed the bunny. "It was my mistake."

"Then he hopped on to borrow the sugar from Mrs. Twistytail, the lady pig. He chuckled to himself as he thought how he had been fooled into thinking the owl was asking his name."

With the little bag of sugar in his pocket, Uncle Wiggily was hopping back through the woods to get his supper. It was darker, now, and, all of a sudden, the rabbit gentleman heard a rustling in the bushes and two green eyes, blazing like coals of fire looked out at him.

"Oh, my goodness! It's the bad Bob Cat!" whispered Uncle Wiggily.

CHANDLER ANDERSON

The recent appointment of Chandler Anderson to be a member of the United States Claims Commission was not unexpected by close associates of President Harding. It is known that the president appreciated Anderson's value as an authority on international law.

His first experience in international negotiations for the U. S. was back in 1896, when he served as secretary for the U. S. and Great Britain with the Bering sea claims commission.

He then acted as secretary for the U. S. and Great Britain on the settlement of Canadian claims. Next he was associate counsel for the U. S. in the Alaska boundary arbitration.

He also acted as counsel for the Panama-Canary bay boundary settlement, and for the state department under Root and Knox in negotiating treaties with Great Britain regarding British North America, also as U. S. agent in the North Atlantic coast fisheries arbitration.

He served as state department counselor from 1910 to 1913 and has been active in important international negotiations of various kinds ever since.

Mrs. Jay: "Yes."

Mr. Jay: "Well, she isn't temperamental."

Local Building Records Set New Mark For Month Of July; Reach $565,036

THE month of July has broken all local building records for that month in Glendale's history. Books closed yesterday afternoon in the municipal building department with a total of $565,036 to the credit of the city.

This showing is considered very good by H. C. Vandewater, superintendent of the building department. He called attention to the fact that last July had a total of only $380,100.

SEVERAL ACTS OF THE BETTER KIND

Railroad Earnings Are Not Guaranteed

A common impression exists that railroad earnings are in some way guaranteed by the Government. This is not a fact.

The railroads were paid for the Federal Control period a fixed rental and were given an option for continuance of this basis for six months thereafter. This arrangement expired August 31, 1920, since which time nothing even resembling a guarantee has been in effect.

Under the Constitution a railroad has always been entitled to earn a fair return upon its property devoted to the public use, the percentage which constituted such fair return being a question for determination by the courts.

The transportation act says: "In the exercise of its power to prescribe just and reasonable rates, the Commission shall... adjust such rates so that carriers... will, under honest, efficient and economical management... earn an aggregate annual net railway operating income equal, as nearly as may be, to a fair return upon the aggregate value... of the common carrier property, giving 'due consideration... to the transportation needs of the country and the necessity... of enlarging such facilities in order to provide the people of the United States with adequate transportation.'"

For the two years ending March 1, 1922, such fair return was fixed at 6 per cent. Since then it has been reduced by the Commission to 5.75 per cent.

In no year, however, have the railroads secured the fair return contemplated by the Act, as the following will show:

Year	Percentage	Actually Earned
1920	0.33
1921	3.3
1922	4.14

It is entirely clear, therefore, that the law in no sense guarantees the earnings of the railroads. If it did, the Government would owe the railroads more than a billion dollars for deficits in 1920, 1921 and 1922.

Since January 1, 1923, the earnings of the railroads as a whole have been better than for the same period in any of the three preceding years, but the rate of return is still lower than the Interstate Commerce Commission has prescribed as reasonable.

The Transportation Act has not been the cause of increases in railroad rates. One of the authors of the Act has said:

"Rates have advanced simply because the cost of maintenance and operation has more than doubled since pre-war days while railroad rates, taken as a whole, are now about 54 per cent higher than they were before the Government took over the railroads at the beginning of the year 1918."

The price of transportation can only be reduced as the cost of transportation is reduced and the railroad's cost of living has increased in like proportion to that of the individual. Every effort, however, is being made to reduce it.

Constructive suggestions are always welcome.

EAGLE ROCK

SECURES RULING ON H. S. PUPILS

Students Will Be Admitted to Glendale High Who Entered Last Year

Students who were enrolled at the Glendale Union High school last year may return this fall, according to S. B. Osborne, who attended the recent meeting of the finance committee of the Los Angeles Board of Education and made a strong plea on behalf of the local student body.

New high school students, Mr. Osborne states, may also attend the Glendale institution, provided they live north of Colorado boulevard and west of College View avenue. All other high school entrants must attend the Los Angeles system, preferably Franklin High school.

The arrangements by which Eagle Rock students continue to have the Glendale Union High school comes about through an equal exchange allowed between Los Angeles and that city, it is understood.

Eagle Rock residents feel that the ironing out of this difficulty is another evidence that Los Angeles is doing everything in her power to protect the interest of her latest addition. Residents of this community also feel deeply indebted to Mr. Osborne for the large amount of effort expended by him in bringing about this happy consummation.

Hill Avenue Straightened
Philip Nufel, of Colorado boulevard and Hill avenue, has donated a triangular piece of ground at this intersection, to be incorporated in a change of the road angle, making easier the turn at this point, announces Dr. Johnson.

Mrs. C. W. Young and daughter, Miss Amber Young, of 900 Rock Glen avenue, have left for a two weeks' stay at Catalina island.

Hartley Taylor and family, of 811 West Colorado boulevard, will leave early in August on their vacation.

At Big Bear Lake
Mr. and Mrs. Leland B. McKelvey and family, of 244 North Highlands avenue, are enjoying an outing at Big Bear lake.

Earl M. Daniels and family find week-ends in their cabin in San Dimas canyon a great pleasure.

Miss Elsa Haas is visiting her brother at 5156 Paloma avenue, it being her first trip to Eagle Rock.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Burnett, from Glassell Park, have bought the duplex at 5124-26 South Central avenue. Mr. Burnett is a newspaper man. He comes from Cairo, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wittefelt, of 5126 North Castle avenue, have been entertaining Miss Enna Infante, from Terre Haute, Ind., a niece of Mr. Wittefelt.

H. I. De Vol, of the firm of Haas & De Vol, realtors, 204 East Colorado boulevard, has sold the home of August Benz, on Fairmont avenue, and the home and business of Carl Miller, on Virginia avenue, during the past month, in addition to many other deals.

KILLED IN FALL

PORTERVILLE, Aug. 1.—Noel Hughes, 16, son of Rev. A. J. Hughes of Long Beach, died in a hospital here as the result of injuries suffered in a forty-foot fall at Camp Wilson, thirty-five miles east of here. He was engaged in erecting an aerial for a wireless set in a tree, when one of the wires came in contact with a high powered electric wire that caused him to lose his balance. An inquest will be held.

"Occasionally, between appointments and our usual beauty work, there is a lull.

"Then, our extra hair work, which we make up ourselves—takes up our time.

"We enjoy it, and make our prices correspondingly low. It is a restful bit of work, so different.

Free Treatment for Physical Defects

A movement has been inaugurated by the Burbank Rotary club that will probably develop into free dental and medical clinics for the public school system of the city.

Dr. Philip Zeiss brought the matter before the club, it being his conviction that the Rotarians should sponsor such a clinic; and, as a result, a committee has been appointed to work on the proposition, the following personnel being included: Dr. Zeiss, dentist; Dr. Butterfield, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist; and Dr. Van Meter, general physician.

In bringing this matter before the attention of the club, Dr. Zeiss stated that in his opinion $4500 could be conserved by the operation of a free dental clinic in the public schools, his principal argument being that it costs approximately $60 per pupil, per term, for education; and that 100 out of the 1300 pupils fail in their lessons, due largely to physical defects, which bad teeth, eye troubles and disorders of the ears, nose, throat and general minor troubles are the chief contributory factors.

In short, 100 pupils daily, each term, at $60 each, costs the school system $6000, of which $4500 could be saved if clinics such as he suggests were instituted, Dr. Zeiss believes.

Rotarian King stated that, as a member of the school board, he was in a position to divulge the information that the board is considering employment of the full-time service of a graduate nurse, to look after the health of the children.

"Stop" Ordinance Dead
Motorists in Burbank will not be troubled to bring their machines to a complete stop, on entering a boulevard from a side street, the board of trustees have decided, the motion to this effect, which had passed on first reading, being tabled.

Mr. Neilsen expressed the opinion that the city was not ripe for such an ordinance; that, although certain eastern cities are observing this rule, it has not reached the west coast and should not be employed in Burbank until adopted by Los Angeles.

The board of trustees have decided that property owners will be required to keep their vacant lots free from weeds, rubbish and other unsightly objects. Notices will be sent to those who are delinquent in this respect; and should these notices fail to awaken any spark of civic pride, sterner measures will be employed.

Lowry, Near Collapse, Bound Over for Trial

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 1.—Approaching a state of mental collapse, through pain and loss of sleep, Frank Lowry, prominent clubman who fractured a leg in a leap from the second story of the Los Angeles Railway building, two weeks ago, when officers sought to arrest him for alleged attempted burglary, has been removed from the emergency hospital to the general hospital, where the leg was to be reset.

Despite the pleading of his friend, R. Cliff Durant, millionaire motor magnate, Lowry refuses to tell all of his story which, police believe, would show that the prisoner is another "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Before his removal to the general hospital, Lowry was arraigned by Justice Scott, holding court at the injured man's bedside. Bail was fixed at $10,000 and the preliminary hearing set for October 2nd.

START HEARINGS ON TAX APPEALS

Board of Review to Consider Pleas From Rulings of Income Tax Bureau

Hearing of appeals from income tax assessments by the newly-created field committee of the board of appeals and review of the internal revenue bureau will begin Wednesday in Judge Bledsoe's court room in the Federal building, Los Angeles.

Chairman Robert J. Service announced yesterday, after a conference with Collector Rex Goodcell, that three cases will be heard daily. The session of the board will extend up to the latter part of September, and cases pending from Utah, Nevada, Arizona and California will be heard.

Taxpayers are urged by Chairman Service to have their cases ready to present to the board. Only cases which have been submitted to the income tax unit at Washington, and from whose decision the taxpayer has appealed, will be heard. However, taxpayers may, upon request to Commissioner Blair, have cases which they have submitted to Washington transferred to the board which will hold hearings here. The committee on appeals and review to sit here is a body independent of the income tax unit. When the decisions of the board are submitted to the commissioner of internal revenue, his action on its reports is final, but the taxpayer has the right to appeal to the federal courts after having paid the tax assessed, if the decision is unfavorable to him.

Board Is Experiment

The sending out of this board of appeals and review is an experiment and whether the practice will be continued depends upon the success of an experiment, Collector Goodcell stated. It means that the internal revenue bureau is going out into the country to meet the taxpayers, instead of the taxpayers having to go to Washington at great expense. It also means that taxpayers, where small amounts are involved and who cannot afford to go to Washington, will have a hearing close to their homes.

Chairman Service emphasized the fact that all hearings he conducts will be in the same confidential manner in which matters of taxpayers are treated in Collector Goodcell's office and in the bureau at Washington. All evidence considered upon appeals must have been previously submitted to the income tax unit, in accordance with the established practice of the internal revenue bureau.

Chairman Service is one of the ablest members of the board of appeals and review at Washington, and was selected for the chairmanship of the field committee because of his eminent fitness for this important position.

Perils of Early Days Are Told by Pioneer

San Francisco he bought a house that had been built in the east and shipped in parts around Cape Horn to California. It consisted of a good sized sitting room with a big fireplace and two small bed rooms. After getting one house set up the men and boys with teams hurried to the redwood forests, where they felled the trees, sawed out clap-boards and hauled them home to build "lean-tos" around the "imported house."

He goes on to tell of the development of the ranch and the formation of a school, which he attended for a short time. He relates, "the Methodists had opened a college in Santa Clara, six miles distant. I was now in my seventeenth year, but could barely write my name. The only book I had to attempt to read was the New Testament, which I carried in my pocket when I was out looking after the cattle. I wanted to attend the new college and father at last gave his consent."

"I milked my regular number of cows night and morning, summer and winter, took care of my horses and rode to school every day for three years. I labored under the adverse condition of having no suitable place to study, no quiet or private room away from the rest of the family. So, during my summer vacation in 1854 I took down a deserted squatter's shanty, some miles away, hauled it home and built a studio for myself. After this I made better progress, developing with every effort a greater thirst for knowledge, a craving which so grew upon me that at last I prevailed upon father and mother to allow me a few years at an eastern college."

(More of Mr. Braly's experiences will appear in The Glendale Evening News from time to time. Watch for them—they will prove interesting.)

Cows Are Forbidden To Dine on Turnips

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Aug. 1.—The state yesterday proceeded to place drastic restrictions on the "personal liberty" of cows. Cows, the milk from which is sold for public consumption or for the making of butter, are prohibited under a ruling handed down by Attorney-General Webb from eating turnips. It is charged that turnips "taint" the milk.

ROAD'S EARNINGS NOT GUARANTEED

President of Union Pacific
Explains Provisions of Present Law

OMAHA, Aug. 1.—That the United States government does not guarantee the earnings of the railroads of the country is brought to the public view in a recent statement of President Carl R. Gray of the Union Pacific system.

President Gray cites the transportation act under which the railroads are now operating, and accentuates the point that the arrangement under which the railroads were paid during the federal control came to an end on the last day of August, 1920.

The statement of President Gray quotes figures showing that the railroads of the country have never yet secured the return of 6 per cent (later reduced to 5.75 per cent) fixed by the Interstate Commerce commission, and asserts that, on such a basis, the government would now owe the railroads more than a billion dollars.

Returns Still Low

That the railroad earnings have been better since January, 1923, than for the same period in any of the three preceding years we are assured. "But the rate of return is still lower than the Interstate Commerce commission has prescribed as reasonable."

The statement concludes with a reminder that the "price of transportation can only be reduced as the cost of transportation is reduced," referring to the advance in a railroad's cost or living as in the case of the individual.

President Gray caps his statement with these words: "Constructive suggestions are always welcome."

BEGGAR WELL SUPPLIED

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 1.—Deposit books on seven California banks and certificates showing that he owned four shares of stock in the Los Angeles Building & Loan Association, to say nothing of $100.75 in pennies, nickels and dimes, were found in the possession of Ernest Singer, a cripple and professional beggar, arrested by Corporal A. McAllister.
